The news of Harry Hill's arrest in Chiis told in yesterday's Constitution, was unexpected and startling, and created a great sensation in Atlanta. An impression had gone abroad that he was to be lowed to stay away without molestation. thought that there was a mistage about his identity and that the prisoner of the Chicago police would turn out to be some other man

But it was Harry Hill and no one else. Inquiries came all day to The Constituion for additional information-in regard to the fugitive. His creditors were not the only parties interested by a great deal. Indeed, the question of the identity of the party apposed to be Hill seemed to overshadow everything else for the time-being.

Governor Northen signed a requisition en Governor Altgeld during the morning and appointed Sergeant Jennings, of the ty police force, to go for the handsome

The Constitution's correspondent in Chicago called on Hill during the day and had an interesting talk with him concerning his wements since leaving Atlanta and his offairs in general. Story of Hill's Wanderings. Where did you go from Atlanta?" I

"The Friday I left Atlanta. I drove to East Point in a buggy. That was May 12th I took the train in the evening and har breakfast in Montgomery, dinner in Mobile, getting in New Orleans the same day at 4:45 p. m. I went into New Orleans on the Louisville and Nashville road, and went direct to the Illinois Central depot, eaving for Chicago at 6 o'clock p. m., Saturday the 13th. I dined at Holly next day, and had supper at kson, Tenn., reaching Chicago Monday rning. The first thing I did here was to to 383 State street, where I got shaved had a bath. I had just found Wink lor, whose address I knew, when I you on Wabash avenue, I have not another soul, and was scared badly fear you would give me away. I went where after that, not thinking or fearg arrest, as I had advices that my went to the Alkambra theater and to the Trocadero. After that I met Stunrt Woodeon, Walter Howard and Tom Miller, talkirg with all but the latter. I then left Chicago for a few days, and spent one day ir Milwaukee. From there I went to Ashland, Wis., where I stayed one day and night. Then I went to Duluth, Minn. "I came back from there last Monday week, coming 500 miles in one night. I got off at Avondale, a Chicago suburb, took a cable car and rode in to the Great Northern hotel, opposite the postoffice. The first person I saw there was an Atlanta negro, who recognized me at once, and I sent him off after Wink Taylor. I asked the negro fi he had seen any Atlanta people, and he said, 'no, only a detective.' After the negro found Taylor, I went to the Grant house, 224 Randolph street, where I have been ever since under cover of my room. The people took quite a fancy to me, and showed me the greatest kindness and consideration, thinking I was sick."

How He Was Caught. "What was the cause of your arrest?" "The knowledge the detectives had of Wink Taylor. By watching him, they caught me at a meeting with him last night on Randolph street."

Taylor, who was with Hill at the Central station during this interview, spoke up and said. "They wouldn't have gotten Hill if he had done as I told him. We were with another friend on Randolph street walking, when a detective came up and caught the other fellow by the collar and I made Hill run. Instead of doing that he walked to my room where he was arrested later, the other man having given him away at the station."

Denies Committing Forgery. Continuing with Hill, I said: "You are charged with forging Mrs. J. H. Porter's name to notes in the sum of $20,000. Is it true?" "It is not," he answered feadily and with decided emphasis. "No such amount was ever involved to begin with and while I did on occasions use her name it was with her authority. Neither she or myself anticipated anything so unfortunate as the situation which now surrounds me." "Tell me something about the notes you

Talks of the Notes.

"The first note of $1,400 which fell due was discounted by Mr. Carey, and was hypothecated by Peter Clarke, teller of the Capital City bank. This note I gave to John M. Robinson and he returned to me $1,150. I) did sign Mrs. Porter's name on this note, but Mr. Clarke afterward went to Mrs. Porter, and she informed him that it would be paid."

"How much do you acknowledge to have raised on the Porter notes, all told?" "I will give you a detailed statement as nearly as my memory serves me. "J. R. Tolleson, about $4,300. On this one note I got $3,050, and I paid him $2,178 interest for a period not exceeding over ninety days. In fact all the cash I took in went to Tolleson to pay his exhorbitant interest charges. He is the man who ruined me. People saw me go in there and it ruined my credit.

"Carev's note was twelve mothls, and I paid Robinson $250 discount.

"Bob Collins, one note, twelve months, ik to Atlanta. In his statement he claims $500 and $100 discount; another note of $2,000 was discounted by Bob Collins for

"Then Joe Gating, representing John Ryan, loaned me $1,500, and charged me $500 interest for ninety days

"The Neal Loan and Banking Company holds notes for about $3,200, one year's time, on which was received only $2,800.

"Summing up the cash I actually got. I should say: $3,050, $1,150, $400, $2,500, $1,500, $2,800, total, $11,400. I paid Gatins back $2,000; Tolleson, $2,178; Collins, $500; Collins again, $100, and Neal Loan and Banking Company, $450. I paid about $5,000 cash for goods bought in the store, and my license $550, and expenses of the store, which were averaging about $300 per month, together with light, rent, clerk hire, etc. This does not very far exceed or differ from the amount I obtained. Now this is an explanation, truthfully given, of the entire transaction and covers as nearly as I can name everything connected with my trouble.

"In leaving Atlanta I acted upon the counsel of Colonel John W. Echols, but I left with him my entire stock of goods, a deed to my plantation in Oglethorpe coutny, ten miles from Lexington, containing 900 acres of land, all equipped with live stock and farm implements and all essential buildings. I also left three notes of $2,000 each, made during the month of March, 1893, and payable to John W. Echols at the Chestnut Street National bank, Philadelphia, Mr. Echols went personally to Philadelphia and New York for the purpose of hypothecating these notes with which to lift the outstanding ones. These notes were signed by Mrs. Porter in the presence if a witness. I am the witness and they were afterwards approved as genuine by Mrs. Porter to Colonel Echols. I left my life insurance policy of $5,000 with my cousin, Ed Hill; also, my borses and buggy and personal furniture. In leaving Atlanta I had $239 only. Of this mount Mr. Ed Hill gave me $200."

Pausing Hill said: "There now, you have the whole story as well as if I had kept a diary. But I never want to go back to Atlanta."

Interesting Telegrams.

TALK ABOUT A TARIFF BILL

Georgia Matters Which Are Just Now Attracting Attention.

SENATOR GORDON AND THE POSTOFFICE

He Is in Washington in Mr. Couper's Interest - Mr. Brown's Chances.
Some Georgia Personals.

Washington, June 1 .- (Special.)-President Cleveland indicated to one of his callers just before leaving yesterday for Hog island that October 1st would probably be the date of the assembling of the fifty-third congress in special session. Heretofore, as has been well known, the president had rather leaned to the suggestion that the middle of September would be the right time at which to begin the business which has been laid out for the democratic party to perform during the coming winter.

So far as can be ascertained no member of the administration is engaged in the work of preparing a tariff bill for submis-sion to congress. There has been much talk of a bill being in existence, but those demoeratic leaders who ought to know are emphatic in their denial of any knowledge of its existence. One of the few remaining numbers of congress here said today: "We think the gentlemen who have led in the fight for tariff reform for so many years and have become so familiar with the subject as to have earned a place on the ways and means committee of the house and or the finance committee of the senate will be perfectly capable of constructing a tariff bill for which the democratic party will vote without the assistance of outsiders."

Colonel W. C. P. Breckinridge, who is looked upon as one of the revenue reform leaders of the house, feels very kindly towards the bill presented by the Reform Club. "It is a most hopeful sign of the times," said he yesterday, "when students and scholars take sufficient interest in the reform of the tariff to dig through its intricacies and evolve a most ingenious and detailed solution of a question such as this. It may not be perfect, but it is at least an effort in that direction. I am doing some thing in the same line." The Postoffice Fight, Senator Gordon came from Richmond this morning and intends to remain until Sunday. He is here at the instigation of Major Couper's friends to urge that gentle man for the Atlanta postoffice. Not much can be done this week, as both Mr. Bissell and Mr. Cleyeland are out of the city and will not return before Saturday night. First Assistant Frank H. Jones, acting postmaster general, is filing all endorse-ments and papers in the case. Senator Gordon will take a turn with him tomorrow.

Colonel Livingston called on him today and urged Dr. Fox for the postoffice. "From what I gather," he said, "nothing will be done for a while in the case. The senstors are divided in their endorsements; and from what I gathered from Mr. Jones the matter will be left to the business men of Atlanta. Still the president may take the bull by the horns and settle it as he has many disputed cases."

Urging Brown's Chances.

Messrs. Livingston and Bankhead filed with the acting postmaster general today Brown's record as a railroad man. They both express great belief that Brown will be Bissell's second assistant. "I think," said Mr. Bankhead, "that we would have met with discouragement if Mr. Bissell was not seriously considering our man. Just the reverse has been the case. Mr. Bissell has seemed eager to learn all he could about Mr. Brown and has asked me to file all I could gather about him. Mr. Calvin in Washington.

Hon, Martin V. Calvin, of Augusta, is here to fight his own uphill battle for a consulate. He has settled on Cuba as the country in which he wants to live for the next four years and has filed an application to that effect. He called at the state department this morning and was introduced by Mr. Livingston. Mr. Calvin has a quiet and impressive manner, which goes a long way with Mr. Quincy, and is well equipped to make a good fight for himself. He will be here for several days longer.

Why Mr. Maury's Resignation Is Asked.

President Cleveland has called for the resignation of Hon. William A. Maury, of Virginia, an assistant attorney general in the department of justice. Mr. Maury was originally appointed by President Cleve land during his first term. He was retained by President Harrison. It is said that he became tainted with Harrisonism during the past four years, and even went so far as to dally lovingly with McKinleyism and to look complacently at Tom Reedism. It is said that he made some Harrison speeches in the mountain towns of Virginia. These things, of course, became known to President Cleveland, and is opinion of them is expressed in his request for Mr. Maury's resignation. Mr. Maury belongs to the celebrated Maury family of Virginia, and is a good lawyer.

Olney Was Surprised.

Attorney General Giney was somewhat surprised that an injunction to close the world's fair on Sunday was not applied for by United States District Attorney Milchrist last Sunday and telegraphed him for an explanation. When Mr. Milchrist left Washington he had explicit instructions to ask for an injunction. In a letter received today from Mr. Milchrist he explains that the time elapsing between the passing of the bill and Sunday was so short that proper notice could not have been given to the public. The judges, too, wanted the that proper house could not have been given to the public. The judges, too, wanted the matter postponed until Chief Justice Fuller could sit with them, and for these reasons he had refrained from presenting the request for an injunction to the federal court.

The Wedding Ceremony Performed in Ber Berlin, June 1.—The wedding of Miss

Marion Pheips, daughter of Judge W. W. Pheips, of New Jersey, to Dr. Von Rottenburg, secretary in the department of the interior, took place at 11 o clock this morning. The ceremony was performed in the secondary values recommend the lowering. so-called vellow room of the legation. I derived its name from the color of its fur-nishing, whose wait mangings, ceiling deco-rations, carpets, furniture, even picture frames, consist of yellow damask. The bride was in traveling costume. The chap-lain of St. George's, the Anglo-American church of Mon Bijou palace, performed the ceremony, and Mr. Edilott Scheck, son of the late Dr. Noah Scheck, accompanied the service with appropriate piano improvisations. Only twenty-four guests were present, among them a favorite brother present, among them a favorite brother and nephew of the bridegroom, and Mrs. and Miss Bennett Phelps, Chancellor Von Caprivi, General and Countess Waldersee; the minister of the interior, Herr Von Boetticher; the minister of commerce and Baroness Von Belepschs; the new American minister and Mrs. Runyon, and Mr. and Mrs. Poultney Bigelow constituted the official guests. The legation was represented by Mr. Coleman, for twenty years first secretary; Mrs. Jackson and Mr. Evans, military attache.

After the service the doors were thrown open and the party asked to partake of the wedding breakfast in the grand salon. There were no speeches, except the toast to the bride and groom, proposed by Mr. Phelps.

SUSPENDED FROM THE MINISTRY.

That Is the Verdict of the Presbyterlans Against Dr. Briggs. Washington, June 1 .- Having decided by a vote or ooo to 110 that they had a he retic on their hands in the person of Dr. Briggs, the arst thing for the general assembly to do when it met this morning was to consider what should be uone with him. Accordingly a committee was appointed to bring in a verdict and its members were requested to get to work at once. After a long session the committee brought in this recommendation: "Sus pension from the ministry," and the assembly adopted the report.

During the session of the committee a motion was made by Dr. Stewart to adopt a resolution admonishing Dr. Briggs for his delivery of the inaugural, and request-ing him to refrain from further spread of his teachings against which the church has spoken. It was suggested, however, by another member that possibly the admonition would be of no avail and it was decided that a subcommittee should wait upon Dr. Briggs and ascertain what position he would take in that case. As they had expected from his speeches they found that Dr. Briggs was not disposed to take back anything which he had said.

Upon making this report to the full committee it was decided that the only other thing to do was to suspend him from the further practice of the offices of a Presbyterian minister, and this was agreed to by a unanimous vote. his teachings against which the church

Dr. Briggs is suspended indefinitely and can only be reinstated on his recantation of the matter in his speeches and writings to which objection has been made. It is unlikely that he will ever do that. Briggs Was Not Present.

Professor Briggs was not in his seat when the closing scene took place, and all the commissioners who have given him their support and counsel had gone, with the exception of Professor Francis Brown, who waited to hear the verdict, and then left the church. Dr. Birch and Dr. Lamb, the members of the committee on prosecution, were also absent. Colonel McCook was the only member of the committee on prosecution in his seat. A. Briggs: My Dear Sir—In accordance with your request, I hereby state that your committee called upon me and asked me if I had anivthing to say to them respecting the disposition of the case. I thereupon said that I adhered to all the positions taken before the general assembly and had nothing further to Gay, except that the appellee reserves all rights and that the general assembly should take the exclusive responsibility for any further action.

WILL PE LYNCHED IF CAUGHT.

A Negro Kills His Wife, Father and the Sheriff. Laurel, Del., June 1 .- John Dennis, heretofore a hard working negro, drove into Salisbury yesterday with a load of straw berries. After selling them he got drunk. On reaching home his father remonstrated with him. John picked up his gun and said he would leave the house for good. His wife ran after him, begging him to return. He levelled his gun at her and fired. She fell mortally wounded.

The murderer's mother apbraided him, whereupon he tried to kill her, but she escaped. The father, who was seventy-eight years old, tried to interfere. His son placed the muzzle of the weapon to the old man's breast and fired. The father fell dead.

The murderer had two hour's start when intelligence of the tragedy was brought to town. Deputy Sheriff Hearn, with a posse, started in pursuit. Dennis was overtaken in the woods today. He agreed to surrender, but as he approached the posse he lifted his gun and fired, killing the sheriff instantly. The posse were so startled that they allowed the murderer to escape. He is still at large. Scores of men are after him. He will be lynched if captured.

RAILROAD ATTORNEYS TALK OUT,

Expressing Their Opinions in Strong Language-Judge Cothran Talks of "the Unwarranted Invasion of Rights,"

Columbia, S. C., June 1, -(Special.) -- The meeting of the state board of equalization today to hear the protests of the infironds against the raising of the assessment on railroad property for taxation, was very lively, and several of the lawyers appearing for the roads used some very strong language. Indeed they went so far as to announce that they remized that there was no justice in the board and that they would carry the matter to the courts.

Superintendent Moore, of the Port Royal and Western Carolina road showed that and Western Carolina road showed that his road was not making operating expenses and saiz that inspection of the road would clearly convince the board of its error.

Major Sheilman, traffic manager of this road, asked that the valuation be reduced from $10,000 per mile to hair that amount as the road had been losing during the last two years. State Treasurer Bates asked what would be the effect of the release from the Georgia Central. Major Sheilman said it would not have any, and Mr. Moore said it would relieve the Georgia Central of a very heavy burden.

would releve the coorga deal of the South heavy burden.
Joseph W. Barnwell, representing the South Carolina road, made an interesting speech, he showed that other property was not assessed at over 50 per cent of its true valuation and read allidarits from the supreme court proceedings where three of the nearliers of the board declared that the railroad property of this state was faxed upon a oasis of its conditional court of the state was faxed upon a oasis of its ty of this state was taked upon a close of risectual value.

Judge Cothran, for the Richmond and Danville road, then fired this neavy close at one board. He said that it was only a creation of time when the point would be reached that would grind this valuable enterprise to pewder between discriminating and excessive assessments of its property for taxation and reduced types of freight. The involvency of the road shows to very one except the board that that point has been reached. Le inferred to the fact that the comproller general had admitted that the assessment was comparatively excessive, and that he rat is trothat that point has been resched. Le letter red to the fact that the comproller general had admitted that the assessment was comparatively excessive, and that he lad introduced a bill in the legislature to bring up all property to the standard which was ignored by the legislature and soid. It is of rare occurrence in the administration of either public or private abdars that an act of admitted injustice is persisted in by those who perpetrate it. A course of expensive litigation has been entered upon, which the state ought not in wisdom to desize and which the railroads of all others are most anxious to avoid. A respectful proposition for the arbitrament of the differences has been made by the latter, which was met on the part of the former with scorn and derision. I believe there is a principle running like a golden thread through the warp and woof of the equity jurisprudence of this country as administered in both the state and federal courts which forbids the destruction of lawful and valuable industries by the imposition of unjust burdens and exactions—a principle which will assure to gill enterprises and especially to those which owe duties to the public, when skillfully and economically administered, the right to carn a teasonable increment for their owners, as well as means of rendering to the public the full. efficient and valuable service required of them by their charters."

Mr. Cothran then stated that after despairing of obtaining any relief he would advise his road fo "invoke the aid of that equitable principle referred to." and filed a protest against what he conceived to be "an unwarranted, unconstitutional, illegal and ruinous luvasion of the rights of property."

Treasurer Bates and Secretary Tindall made remarks to the effect that they had no war to make against railroads and that the board was not going to discriminate against anybody. The board adjourned without giving any intimation as to how they are going to act.

BEHRING SEA ARBITRATION.

Argument of Sir Richard Webster Before

Paris, June 1.—In his argument before the Behring sea tribunal of arbitration to-day, Sir Richard Webster renewed his discussion of the treaty between Great Britain and Russia in 1825 and compared it with the treaty with the United States and Russia in 1824. Sir Richard argued that the word in article 1. of the Russia-American treaty, "any-part of the Pacific ocean", included Behring sea, and he contended that Mr. Carter had been sadly mistaken in believing that Mr. Blaine had established that the Russian Claim to exceptional jurisdiction over all of Bhering sea, including the 100 mile limit, had never been abandoned, but had been recognized by Great Britain.

Continuing his argument, Sir Richard Webster asserted that Russia had never exercised exclusive jurisdiction in Bhering exercised exclusive jurisdiction in Binering sea outside of the territorial limits, and had never exercised exclusive control over the high seas in Behring sea. Sir Hichard Webster went on to argue that no seaf hunting at Pribyloff islands could, by pronunting at Pribyloff islands could, by pro-scription, confer exclusive rights on the high seas. Great Britain, he said, had nev-er recognized that Russia possessed exclus-tive jurisdiction over Bearing sea, and Rus-sia did not cede Behring sea to the United States. If Russia had ceded Behring sea, the cession would not bind other nations, nor justify the pretensions of the United States to make Behring sea a mare claus-um.

EULALIE AT THE RACES.

The Princess Goes to Morris Park and Sees

the Horses Run.

New York, June 1.—Princess Eulaile went to the races today. She went as one of the royal blood should go and was entertained in sumptuous style at the famous Morris park track, which for beauty of prospect, view of the course and luxurious clubhouse is not equalled in this country.

The princess was fatigued this morning and did not leave her apartments until the afternoon. The prince and duke of Tamames went to Moreno's so sit for more photographs and to see the proofs of those already taken. They returned at noon and breakfasted with the princess. The commanders of the Spanish men of war and the caravels called at noon. The infanta is by her rank while in this country commander in chief of all Spanish ships in our waters, and the captains of the ships call every morning for orders.

At 1:45 the princess, the prince, the duke of Tamames, the Marquisa Arca-Hermosa, Secretary Jovar and Captain Conchas, of the Santa Marla, entered carriages and were driven to Morris park. The party was escorted by Commander Pavis, General Horace Porter, General James M. Varnum and others.

SERGEANT JENNINGS DEPARTS

With a Requisition in One Pocket and Handcuffs in Another.

With a requisition upon Governor Alt-geld, of Illinois, for the fugitive Harry Hill securely stored away in an inside pocket of his brand new suit of clothes, Sergeant H. Jennings, of the Atlanta police force, departed for Chicago at 1:35 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

In another pocket of the same suit of lothes was a strong pair of glistening handcuffs in good working order, and when the ergeant returns to Atlanta next Tuesday night Harry Hill will be with him and the manacles will fasten his hands together. Harry Hill's arrest was brought about through his own disbelief in the sincerity of the parties who were reported to want him arrested, through a telegram to a young lady cousin, and his communications with Wink Taylor and Bob Lampkin, both old Atlantians. Unconsciously on their part, Hill was betrayed into the hands of the law by his old friends.

Chief Connolly spent two days in Chicago looking for Hill, and with him were Detectives Ritchie and Bernard. These two Chicago officials conducted Atlanta's chief through numerous gambling resorts and to places of light amusement where it was thought likely that Hill might be found. During these two days they spent with Chief Connolly in looking for Hill, the two Chicago sleutas became considerably inter-ested in the case of Hill, and paid stricter attention to it than to most cases placed in their hands. Inspector Ross, who has direct supervision over the detectives, took a special interest in the case, as he was desirous of showing to Chief Connolly, who was then the city's guest, every possible courtesy. He placed at the Atlanta chief's disposal his best detectives. He had one or two conferences with Chief Councily himself and made several notes on the case when the Atlanta chief left.

A week ago Chief Connolly sent Inspector Ross a good picture of Hill, the same as printed on the circulars, and on the back he wrote down some facts which greatly nided the Chicago men.

"Watch Wink Taylor," Chief Connolly wrote, "and you will learn something about Hill's movements. The two are great friends and are slightly related by riage. If you will watch Taylor's mail you may learn where Hill is."

About the time this letter was written Detective Billie Crim, of this city, discovered an important piece of information which led the officers to believe what they had not thought possible before, that Hill was still in hiding in Chicago. The information the Atlanta detective discovered came here in a telegram from Hill to a young lady relative. The message was from Chicago, and as it was strictly confidential there seemed no room for doubting that it was filed in Chicago.. The address mentioned in the telegram was sent by Chief Connolly to Inspector Ross's men in a letter. The story about the police authorities knowing that Hill was in or near Chicago all the time and sending out the descriptive circulars merely as a blind is incorrect. The first the officers learned of Hill's being in Chicago was from the telegram detected by Crim, and the first positive information on that point was that found by the Chicago

The letters Chief Connolly sent to Chicago ore fruit. The two detectives who had helped him look for Hill had gained an insight into the case, which aided by the later information sent by Chief Connolly, made it appear an easy matter to lay hands on Hill and capture the reward money. These officers worked a clever ruse to entrap Hill, and they succeeded admirably. They had matured their plans to such a degree by last Tuesday that they felt reasonably certain of success. On Wednesday morning Chief Connolly received a fetter from Inspector Ross saying that Hill had been docated and might be caught at any time. The letter gave a few details of the clever scheming of the Chicago sleuths and ended by requesting Chief Connolly to have requisition papers ready so that an officer might start for Hill at a moment's notice. Wednesday afternoon Chief Connolly had the requisition prepared and the name of Sergeant Jennings entered upon it as the legally authorized representative of the state of Georgia. All that was left blank was the date. The matter was conducted with the greatest secrecy. Chief Connolly made all these preparations, but he hadn't the slightest idea Hill would be arrested so soon.

"I was greatly surprised" said he the degree by last Tuesday that they felt rea-day morning Chief Coccess. On Wednes-

"I was greatly surprised," said he, "when I read in the morning Constitution that Hill had been arrested. I fully expected him to be arrested within a few days, but I did not anticipate the announcement so soon."

I did not anticipate the announcement so soon."

Upon coming down to his office yesterday morning Chief Combolly received a telegram from Inspector Ross informing him of Hill's arrest, and asking that an officer be sent for him at once. Hill had been identified without trouble. As soon as arrangements could be made Sergeant Jennings was sent to Chicago for the forger. From Atlanta the sergeant goes direct to Springfield, Ill., where Governor Altgeld approves the requisition drawn by Governor Northen. Thence he will go to Chicago, where he will get his prisoner. According to the programme mapped out by Chief Connolly Sergeant Jennings will leave Chicago with Hill Sunday night and arrive here early Tuesday morning.

Hill yesterday telegraphed to two friends here to have bail ready for him by the time of his arrival.

NOT FORSAKEN BY HIS PEOPLE.

He Says His Titled Relatives Are Ready to Help Him if They Can-Will Put on Stripes Today.

While the larks were singing their welcome to the bright June sunrise yesterday Lord Beresford made his toilet in cell 36 at the police station, and a few minutes later he left for a six years' visit to the convict camp in Dodge county, where he will engage in the lumber business.

The young lord bade the station house officials goodby, and although he had only met them the night, before, he seemed to be really affected at leaving them. He gave each a hearty hand-shake, and went out into the bracing morning air like a traveler who had gotten out of bed early to make a journey. He breakfasted at Durand's restaurant He breakfasted at Durand's restaurant with Guard Starnes and ate a hearty meal which he seemed to enjoy. He chatted pleasantly with the guard while eating. He nodded to several people whom he had met in his more prosperous days and who now came in and sat at tables near him. CLOSED ITS DOORS.

The Plankington Bank Makes an Assign ment After a Hard Struggle.

Milwaukee, June 1.-The Plankington bank, which stood a hard run two weeks ago when which stood a hard run two weeks ago when it became known through the failure of Lappen & Co. that the bank had loaned $219,000 to that itrm, closed its doors this morning and made an assignment this afternoon. A notice was placed on the door which stated that on account of the failure of efforts to reorganize the bank and the constant withdrawal of deposits it was thought best to close the bank. The Lappen inventory was finished yesterday evening and the poor showing of assets made by it settled the bank. The Plankinton's recorded claims against the Lappen business aggregated $219,000. The claims of Robert Hin and A. Landauer, all of which take precedence of the Plankington, aggregate $55,000. The inventory of Lappen's stock shows an inventory of only $20,000. Allowing $55,000 of this for the Hill and Landauer accounts, there is but $153,000 toward making good the Plankinton claim.

After Mr. Plankington's death, a year ago, Mr. Day was made president and Mr. Plankington's son, William Plankington, was chosen to represent the Plankington, stock.

An assignment was made to Mr. William Plankington the Mr. Plankington was placed under bonds to the amount of $1.600.000. His bondsmen are Mr. Day and Charles Ferguson The state law regueting assignments requires that the amount of the bond must be placed at a figure equal the nominal assets. With the failure of the Plankington bank the chances for the reorganization of the Lappen Brothers fall flat. There is no longer any hope that the proposed company can be organized.

Sherif Duan has in hand more than $450,000 in claims against the Lappens, while the total value of the stock, according to the appraisers' inventory, is $208,000.82.

BAD WEATHER IN CHICAGO.

But There Was a Good Attendance at the Fair. Chicago, June 1.-(Special.)-It was war

Chicago, June 1.—(Special.)—It was warm and wet and exceedingly disagreeable weather at the world's fair today. It rained hard all last night and until near noon today. The sun broke through the clouds for a short time, but then it clouded up again and the sun went down under a Menvy, threatening cloud. But in spite of the bad weather; there was a good attendance. The bureau of admissions tonight estimate the number of tickets sold at the gates at 30,000. There were a number of attractions today. "The Old Kentucky Home," as the Kentucky state building is called, was dedicated by Governor Young Brown.

The Pennsylvania building for children was also dedicated. It is a perfect palace for the little ones. It has been so arranged that mothers visiting the fair can leave their babes at this building in care of trained nurses, while the mothers take in the sights. Another feature of the day was the opening of the German exhibit in machinery hall. Herr Haller, royal inspector, in charge of the German machinery exhibits, opened the doors, after the band had played a few selections, with a short address in which he expressed his satisfaction that the exhibit would now be shown in full operation, owing to its complete state in every detail.

The electricity building was formally opened to the public tonight. The building has been open to the public since the opening of the fair, but the exhibitors have been slow in getting fheir wares in position. There were no speeches made, the ceremonies consisting solely of band music.

CYCLONE IN ALABAMA.

It Brings Much Destruction, But So Far as Known, No Deaths.

Gadsden, Ala., June 1.—(Special.)—News reached here today of a destructive cyclone that struck between Chumby and Collinsville, DeKalb county, in Big Will's valley. The cyclone came sweeping down from Sand mountain with a deafening roar and first struck the house of John Lynch, almost tostruck the house of John Lynch, almost totally destroying it, blocking the public road

The cyclone then went in a northeasterly direction through Little Will's yalley on up Lookout mountain, doing great damage to vacant houses, destroying growing crops and levellug forests. The path cut by the cyclone was 200 yards wide and the damage will reach several thousand dollars. No deaths have yet been reported, but one or two will likely die. The people were terror stricken and many women and children have not yet recovered from their fright.

CYCLONE IN ARKANSAS.

Great Damage Was Done but No Loss of Life.

Camden, Ark., June 1 .- Reports from Canden, Ark., June 1.—Reports from the county adjoining this county are to the effect that a disastrous cyclone passed over there yesterday evening. The wind cut a swath forty miles wide. One hundred and sixty-five big trees were blown across the Cotton Belt railroad track near Willow Star-Damage was done to all property in the track of the whirlwind. It is greatest in the yellow pine regions and to samplify the yellow pine regions and to sawmills. No loss of life is reported, the people fleeing to ravines. One man jumped in a well to save himself. The railroad has been cleared of debris.

Forest City, Ark., June 1.—News came in last night that a cyclone had passed four miles west of this city and had done great damage, but as that part of the country was completely isolated from here, no particulars could be gained until morning. It proved far more disastrous than was imagined. A two-story frame house, occupied by Mrs. Thomas, a widow with a large family, was completely demolished and Mrs. Thomas, and her thirteen-year-old daughter instantly killed.

Many other houses in the track of the cyclone were demolished or unroofed. Not a tree or fence was left standing in its track. Some Loss of Life.

A meeting of the courthouse committee was held this morning. The meeting was to agree upon means of heating the courthouse. The plans of Mr. L. T. Goodrich for heating by means of hot water were adopted and bids from several plumbers for doing the work opened. The bid of Mr. C. A. Robbe was found to be the lowest and the contract was awarded to him. It was for $5,000. Work will be commenced in a short while Mr. Robbe has also secured the contract on the Langlie mill.

Drink.

Hartwell, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—A gentleman who lives at Anderson, S. C., purchased a sewing machine from Mr. C. A. Reed one day last week and paid for it entirely in dfmes. In doing so he related the following incident: Six years ago, he said, he had such an appetite for whisky that he couldn't come to town without getting drunk. He concluded to try a scheme, and every time he felt like taking a drink of whisky he put a dime in a little pouch that he carried for that purpose. As he saw the number of dimes in his pouch increase his appetite for stimulants decreased. He furthermore stated that in addition to saving chough dimes to buy his wife a sewing machine, his sober life had enabled him to attend to his business to such advantage that he has purchased a tract of land for $450, all of which has been paid except $100.

ATLANTA'S BICYCLE BUSINESS. Its Marvelous Growth and Its Effect on the

Within the short space of a few months
Atlanta has become one of the foremost bicycle towns in the United States for its size. The fad struck the city like a cyclone and where a year ago one could stand all day without seeing a wheel it is now impossible to stand five minutes without mpossible to stand live minutes without seeing a dozen or two pedal pushers go sailing by.

In connection with this sudden development there has arisen a curious state of affairs at which the liverymen are kicking.

"It is hurting our business," said a prominent liveryman yesterday. "These bicycle establishments rent out bicycles at prices with which we cannot compete, and it has come to that pass that if a man wants to take a pleasure ride or go to Marietta, Stone Mountain, Lithia Springs, Decatur come to that pass that if a man wants to take a pleasure ride or go to Marietta, Stone Mountain, Lithia Springs, Decatur or any other place within a radius of twenty miles, off he goes and rents a wheel. Now it used to be that he would come to us for a horse and buggy if he wanted to make the trip through the country, but since the wheel fad has struck town we are not in it.

"The man who rents bicycles has this advantage: He does not have to buy feed. This bicycle renting scheme has become a regular business. Those who cannot afford to buy wheels or who do not care to ride often, go to the bicycle storerooms and for a consideration are allowed to use the wheel for a stated time.

"Of course it does not do any good to grumble about it, because the bicycle is here to stay. Indeed, it has become in the short space of a few months one of the best paying businesses in the city, on a small scale, and the system of letting out wheels to rent is paying the bicycle establishments well."

The Rumored Mohammedan Colony Does Not Arouse Enthusiasm.

Not Arouse Enthusiasm.

Nothing is known around the statehouse about the rumored plan to start a colony of Mohammedans in south treorgia.

Major Glessner, immigration agent of the Georgia Southern and Florida raliroad, was here yesterday and he said hat he had not heard anything more than he had read in The Constitution. His company 1-3 cotions on large tracts of land, and he stated that it would sell the Mohammedans if they want to try their fortunes in this state.

There is no strong desire to encourage Turks to settle in the state, but it is suggested that it might be a good way to convert them to the Christian faith.

Down on the coast there are a few Mohammedon.

It might be a good way to convert them to the Christian faith.

Down on the coast there are a few Mohammedans. They are descended from the pirate crews of the noted Blackbeard.

On Blackbeard and the neighboring islands, the descendants of the pirates have mixed with the negroes and there are still a few whe retain some semblance of Mohammedanism. For instance they speak of the "Christian dogs" when they get mad. There is a famous old hunter and fisher on one of the islands who boasts of his Turkish descent and of his pirate forefathers. He swears by Allah and the prophet.

An English Artist's Luck.

Montreal, June 1.—Lee Stanton, an English painter, bought a leather valise at the Grand Trunk railroad sale of unclaimed baggage for $2. On opening it he found 107 shares in the Western Gas Improvement Company, of Chicago, fully paid up and worth $107.000. The valise was the property of Loais Halberstadt, who died in Brockville, Ont., in October, 1891, of alcoholism. He went to Brockville from Naplersville, Ill. A large sum of money and some jewelry, which he was known to have had just prior to his death, were missing and it was believed at the time that he had been robbed. An English Artist's Luck.

Madison, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—I drove up to the home of Jacob C. Butts, of this county, about six miles north of Madison. The venerable gentleman heard us talking out at the front gate. Though almost to. cut at the front gate. Though almost to tally blind, true to his hospitable instinct, he hobbled out with his cane to the gate,

But I always had sheep, hogs, cattle, wheat, oats and corn in abundance. I remember one winter selling sixty head of remember one winter selling sixty head of hogs that averaged over 300 pounds. I sold one of the richest men in Madison his meat one winter. Some time afterwards he said

'Jake, I like your meat; it was very 'Yes,' I said; 'I don't sell any cher

"But let me tell you, said he, how I managed it. I sold the hams and shoulders, and I made the middlings chear profit, and we are living on it now."
"Before the war I was an old line whig."

"Before the war I was an old line wing. There was great rascality in elections in those days. Both parties would run the most available man, though he was as mean as the devil. It was party above everything. Of course there were exceptions, John C. Reese, for many years clerk of the superior court, was a good man, but he was a democrat. The democrats had the majority, but I told the boys I knew a man that could beat Reese. We brought out Charley Whiting, not only an available, but jority, but I told the boys I knew a man that could beat Reese. We brought out Charley Whiting, not only an available, but a good man. The Reese roost was a strong one, and it was a hot race. He beat Whiting just one vote. Afterwards we sent Whiting to the legislature. AN ELECTION

Will Undoubtedy be Ordered on the Bridge Question.

INTERESTING EXERCISES AT MERCER

Began Last Night -- Moot Court by the Law Students-News and Gossip of Macon.

Macon, Ga. June 1.—(Special.)—County Commissioner J. J. Amason will cut the Gordian know of the question whether or not the people of Bibb county shall have an election to decide whether or not there shall be an issuance of bonds to build a new bridge over the Ocmulgee river. Mr. Amason was in the city today from his coun-try home in the Hazard district, and he clearly and emphatically stated his position in the matter. He says that at the next meeting of the board of commissioners he will vote to let the people have an election on the bridge question, but at the election itself he will vote against building the bridge. At a meeting of the commissioners on Tuesday only four of the five mem-bers were present, and the vote on having an election resulted in a tie, Commissioners Davis and Jenkins voting for the election, and Commissioners McGobick and Henry voting against it. The matter will be con-sidered again at the next meeting of the board, when Mr. Amason will break the tie by voting for an election. This meet-ing will be either a call meeting on Saturday, or the regular monthly meeting next

An attempt is being made to make it appear that there is a great public clamor for the bridge, and that there is universal con-demnation of the action of Commissioners McGobick and Henry in not voting to have a general election to decide the issuance of bonds to build the bridge. The truth is the masses of the people are caring very lit-tle about the matter. They are not pawing the earth or tearing the air. The cold facts are that those whose property or business is to be directly enhanced are very much in favor of building the bridge, and iness is to be directly enhanced are very much in favor of building the bridge, and these who fear that their interests will be directly damaged by the new bridge are very much opposed to its erection. The great majority of taxpayers and perplegationally are not in the least agitated. The advocates of the bridge claim that it would open up a new highway to the city when would bring new land on the market for building purposes, and thus increase population and tax values and add to the general prosperity and growth of the whole people of the entire county. The opposition say that the building of the bridge would enhance the value of the land of a few persons only, at the expense of depreciating the property of others along the route of the county would derive no benefit whatever. RAILWAY NEWS.

Checkmated by the East Tennessee.

TWO REPORTS ABOUT THE CASH.

It May Be That the Marietta and North Georgia Is Bottled Up-General Railway News and Gossip.

The plans of Newman Erb to form a nev runk line from Florida to the Ohio river, hrough Atlanta, are said to be upset. Such a line would divide the traffic with he East Tennessee and the Louisville and Nashville and its connections. The proposed ine would be more of a competitor with the East Tennessee than the other road.

Mr. Erb's scheme was to consolidate the Atlanta and Florida, the Marietta and North Georgia and the Knoxville and Cum-berland Gap. These roads, with some gaps built in, would form a respectable through line, which, in time, would become a lively competitor of the East Tennessee. The sale of the Atlanta and Florida was considered to be favorable to the Erb plan. The move to get a coreceiver for the Marietta and North Georgia was to put Mr. E. Summerfield in charge. Then it was proposed to acquire, by purchase, the Knoxville and Cumberland Gap.

However, the East Tennessee was awake and when the Knoxville road was sold, it was bought, report says, with money furnished by Drexel, Morgan & Co., the capitalists, who have undertaken to reorganize the East Tennessee and the Richmond and Danville for the Terminal. At first it was given out that the Central Trust Company, of New York, supplied the money for the purchase of the Knoxville road, as it did for the purchase of the Atlanta and Florida a few weeks ago. If it be true that the East Tennessee has secured control of the Knoxville and Cumberland Gap, the Marietta and North Georgia is bottled up at Knoxville and the scheme to consolidate the three properties is certainly impaired.

A railway manager, who is not concerned in the plan one way or the other, says that it is a fact that Drexel, Morgan & Co. put up the money for the purchase of the Knox-ville road. The truth ought to be easily as-certained. Should the report that the East Tennessee has the Knoxville line be true, it will be bad news for some parties.

Cincinnati, June 1.—Information has reached here that reports are current that stop-over privileges at Cincinnati on through tickets to Chleago are not being given. These assertions are wholly unfounded. Stop-over privileges at Cincinnati are guaranteed both ways by the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association on all tickets reading through Cincinnati, whether limited or not. To secure this privilege it is only necessary at Cincinnati to deposit tickets with E. H. Wilson, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association. the Merchants and Manufacturers' Associ-ation, room "A," chamber of commerce. NASHVILLE, CHATTANOOGA AND ST

Louis Railway to Chicago in Twenty-Two Hours and Fifty-Eight Minutes.

Commencing on Monday next, June 5th, the Western and Atlantic railroad and the Nashville, Chattaooga and St. Louis rail-way will inaugurate the quickest schedules ever made between Atlanta and Chicago. President Thomas has said that he had the short line between Atlanta and Chicago, and he intends to make whatever schedules might be necessary, not only to meet the competition, but to show his patrons that he appreciated their kindness by giving them the quickest and best service between Atlanta and Chicago.

The velvet vestibuled train will leave Atlanta at 10 a. m.; leave Chattanooga, 2:42 p. m.; leave Nashville, 7:45 p. m.; leave Evansville, 12:45 a. m., and arrive at Chicago, 8:58 a. m., making the unpresentations. cedented time of twenty-two hours and fifty-eight minutes from Atlanta to Chicago. This train will be vestibuled throughout, including baggage, mail, express, day coaches and Pullman's finest sleepers. An elegant Puliman dining car, supplied with all the delicacies of the season will be a leading feature to this elegant new train. In addition to this special vestibuled train to Chicago, the world's fair flyer, which formerly left Atlanta at 2 p. m., will leave at 2:15 p. m., with solid train, composed of

Mr. Charles E. Harman, general passenger agent of the Western and Atlantic railroad, says that his world's fair information bureau is working admirably, and says that he is answering hundreds of letters daily, giving desired information to parties who contemplate a visit to Chicago, as to routes, rates, hotels and boarding houses. Besides the number of hotels in Chicago, of which he has a list, he has also obtained, through reliable information, the addresses of fifteen or twenty boarding houses, which he is furnishing to the patrons of the Western and Atlantic railroad upon application.

He has issued a neat little circular giving important world's fair information, which he will send to any one upon application.

It looks now as though the railroads had determined to maintain the rates as named, and will have a war of schedules instead of a war of rates. Mr. Harman says that this is the best way to accommodate the people, by giving them quick and reliable schedules, and allowing the roads to receive a living rate out of the world's fair business.

THOSE TRIPS TO CHICAGO.

Great Interest Is Manifested in the Different Contests.

The interest in The Constitution's world's fair contests grows each day. The announcement that the contests are no catchpenny affairs, but are real tests of the popularity of the different aspirants, added new impetus to the zeal of the friends of those already in, and also added a number of new candidates. The free ride over the East Tennessee's Chicago special and the week's board at the Hotel Ingram are certainly worth striving for.

Coinage and Commodity Values.

It is a pity that the Courier-Journal. Instead of making a foolish and futile attempt to destroy the force of its own unanswerable arguments in favor of bimetallism-in behalf of the free coinage of silver-does not confine itself to the main business which it proposes to have In view, namely, the repeal of the Sherman law. We presume that never be fore in the history of American journalism has a great newspaper-or a small one for that matter-without a change of ownership or of editors, turned upon itself and adopted for its own, in an issue of vital importance, the very arguments which it had taken pains to show were spurious, shallow, false in concention, false in expression, and born out of the very bowels of a greed opposed to every substantial interest of the people.

If the conditions had changed, if public opinion had changed, if the democratic party had changed, there would be a peg to hang an excuse upon; the Courier-Journal's position would have reason behind it. But the spectacle which our contemporary makes of itself could not be more distressing if it were to come out tomorrow and advocate the retention on our statute books of, the McKinley law. For the tariff issue, fairly weighed and measured, is not more vital than the financial issue, as the events of the next twelve months are likely to prove.

It would be creditable to the Courier-Journal if even at this juncture it would take into its confidence the people who have subscribed to its daily and weekly editions under the impression that it was representing and would continue to represent their interests, and endeavor to explain to them the true inwardness of the remarkable step it has takennot by sticking under their noses the stench of the false arguments it has demolished a hundred times, but by going into the details of the process by which a great newspaper has been induced to desert the cause of the people which it has been advocating with conspicuous ability, and become the ardent advocate of the interests of the money sharks and goldolators of the east Such an explanation would make an instructive supplement to Editor Watterson's entertaining lecture on "Money and Morals."

The trouble with the Courier-Journal is that its great flunk and flounder on the silver question has led it into a maze of foolish contradictions from which it cannot possibly escape. These contradictions belong to the Shylock side of the discussion and are a part of the stock-in-trade of those who are vainly trying to convince the people that a dollar which is constantly increasing in value is an "honest" dollar, and that a money basis which is constantly becoming scarcer and growing dearer is an "honest" money basis. As a matter of fact the very interests and elements which depend on these contradictions for arguments, are daily furnishing unanswerable and crushing replies to them -the money power that demanded the continuation of the Harrison policy which discards silver coin as money of final payment, the speculative interests that are withdrawing currency from circulation, the conspiring banks that are endeavoring to persuade the government to pay a premium on gold by issuing interest-bearing bonds to buy

But since The Courier-Journal has practically attached its fortunes to those of the eastern Shylocks and goldbugs no fallacy seems too absurd for it-no argument seems to be too cheap. As a specimen, we take the following from an editorial article, in which our floundering contemporary undertakes to make dark what to ordinary minds is clear as the noonday sun:

We repeat, congress and parliament can no more fix the value of gold and silver than they can fix the value of steel or coal or the government selects them for use as "money;" that is, as a measure of value and medium of exchange. A gold dollar does not represent a dollar; it is actually and intrinsically 100 cents. Gold and silver fluctuate less than steel, so ongress does not fix its value, for it is worth as much in London as it is worth in New York. Congress might, by establishing free coinage and making the silver dollar a legal tender, enable us to pay our debts in tender, enable us to pay our debts in but the coin in the dollar, that is, the alleged silver dollar, would be worth simply its market value in London. This shows that the flat of congress never has and never can control the markets.

must rid our minds of this "flat" delusion, or else we should carry it to a logical conclusion. If congress can make sixty-five cents of silver worth $1, it can make sixtye cents' worth of cotton pass for $1. If intend to give flat value to sliver, give it cotton, give it to paper.

The Bank of England is, by law, com-belled to buy all gold that is offered at a certain fixed price. This fixes the limit below which gold cannot fall in England-the minimum value. The Courier-Journal's man of straw must stand aside. Let it face the facts, which are these: The law itself adds nothing to the value of gold or silver, but the uses which the law provides for these metals do add value. The stamp is the me al's commission to enter into employ ment as legal tender money, and this use and employment of the metal as legal tender money increases the demand for it and lifts the bullion within marketable range of the mints up to the value of the coined money. Any school boy ought to be able to understand this process, which is in accord with common sense and fact. To compare the money function with a commodity is to bring forth a lame illustration, but we venture this-that if the government were to legislate that cotton should not enter into the manufacture of fabrics the price of the staple would fall. On the other hand, if the law were repealed, the price would rise again. Here the law could not be said to take away from or to add to the value of the staple; but by depriving it of its chief use the law would destroy demand, and so reduce the value, or, by restoring the staple to its chief use it would restore the demand and so restore the value.

So with silver. Repeal the act of demonetization, restore the metal to its use as money-the use to which it has been dedicated throughout the agesand its money value will be restored. If the restoration were to take place today the conspirators might hoard their gold or export it, and no business interest in the country would be the worse off for it. We would not be on the ragged edge of a panic-on verge of a contraction in values that will test the credit of every business man and interest in the country, and that threatens to bring bankruptcy to the transportation lines, and to every large enterprise that the energy of our people has built up. With the double standard-the mints open to both metwithout discrimination against either-the exportation of our gold-supply would create no concern, and there would be no dearth of money, no contraction of values.

Facts About Immigration.

It has been so often said that immigrants stick to the parallels of latitude upon which they were born that the saying has become a maxim and is generally believed.

The Europeans who have landed at Boston and New York have sought homes in the west, but The St. Louis Republic contends that many great migrations of the human race have sought new lines of latitude. The first settlers in Virginia, the Carolinas and Georgia departed very widely from their native parallel. The first Spanish colonists went from the temperate zone to the tropics. The numerous Germans in Texas are satisfied with a climate very different from their home climate.

There is nothing in the old maxim. says our contemporary. Look at the large colonies of southerners in the north, and of northerners in the south On the other side of the Mississippi people from the northwest have gone in large numbers to Arkansas and Texas, and many southwestern people have gone to Oregon and Montana. The Republic says: Man in his migrations follows not the par allels of latitude, but the lines of the least resistance, and constantly seeks the regions where subsistence is easiest. The Asiation migrations which overran Europe before and since the era of history have paid very little attention to parallels of latitude, but have shifted from south to north and from north to south in pure restlessness or the eager search for comfort and an easy livelihood. The Northmen who conquered and settled from Asia to the Baltic centuries before they again turned southward to possess the more genial climate and fruitful soil of the Gaul and the Celt. From England and from Normandy they invaded Italy and the Holy Land, and have since spread all over the globe. The new English empire in Australia of latitude away from England as it is possible to get until Jules Verne's fiction of mibration to the moon is translated into facts.

This is a sensible review of the whole business. Our 'immigrants will settle where they believe that the inducements are the most tempting. If they have not made a rush southward it is because we do not advertise our advantages, and make no effort to correct the misrepresentations which have been made by unfriendly writers in the past.

State Banks of Issue.

We print another letter from Dr. I. H. Hand, of Baker county, on the question of state banks of issue. Our corre spondent should bear in mind that the repeal of the 10 per cent tax is one thing and the establishing of state banks of issue another and a different thing. The question of repeal is a national matter. It involves the restoration to the people of the states of a right unconstitutionally taken from them during the war-the right to issue, not money, but notes of credit-promissory notes.

The prohibitory tax, being unconstitutional, should be repealed. When that repeal has taken place the establishing of state banks of issue becomes a question for each state to decide for itself. In the states where these notes can be made available, or where they are necessary, they can be made to perform a useful service in utilizing the credit of those who by reason of our present financial system are practically cut off from the money supply furnished by the general government and the banks The whole matter would be left to the states themselves.

Dr. Hand agrees with us that state banks of issue would be "a partial measure of relief from the oppressive evils of the national banking system.' This is all that The Constitution has ever claimed for this system. We have never supposed for a moment that it would cure or prove to be a remedy for the swarm of financial evils brought upon us by republican financial legislation. We have never advocated it as a substitute for the free coinage of silver, but as a supplementary measure. Nevertheless, it is true that state banks of issue would afford a measure of relief that can be obtained in no other way. There is no other method whereby the property and credit of communities remote from the money centers can be so readily utilized. The notes would not be in the nature of money, and their currency among the people would depend altogether on their soundness. As for the national banks, it is not to be denied that they have been using their vast powers most victously during their vast powers most tif it were pos-the past few months, but if it were possible to repeal the law under they operate if would be possible to institute all the reforms that the people call for. One thing at a time. Great reforms move slowly, and the people, hampered by the fears of the politicians, are only able to carry out their views by piecemeal. Repeal the 10 per cent tax and establish state banks where they are needed, and the national banks are shorn of their power to control and contract the currency.

In regard to subtreasuries, The Constitution has urged that they be established in every state, so that the people in all sections can enjoy the benefits which are now conferred by the subtreasury system on the people within reach of Boston, New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco and other cities where subtreasuries have been established.

The rate of interest depends on the money supply. Where money is scarce it is dear-that is to say, the rate of interest is high. Where it is plentiful it is cheap-the rate of interest is cheap. Usury laws have no more effect on the rate of interest than the flashes of a lightning bug have on the temperature of the moon. The state banks would make currency plentiful, there would be competition among those having currency to loan and interest would be low, as it was before the war.

On the Wrong Tack.

Some of the railway lines from southeru points to Chicago are displaying great enterprise in the matter of fast schedules.

Instead of reducing rates they are reducing the time occupied in transit. This is not what the people want. There is a general demand for one fare to Chicago and return during the world's fair. Such a rate is fixed by railroads on many occasions between points more or less distant, and they would find it popular and profitable on a larger scale. People are so accustomed to the onefare-round-trip rate when there is a drawing attraction that they expect it during the world's fair, and thousands will remain at home if this reasonable concession is not granted.

The saving of a few minutes or hours loes not count with the visitors to the fair. What they want is a reduction in the rates, which are now altogether too high. They will be satisfied with a reasonably fast schedule if they can make the round trip for one fare.

Our railway managers should give this matter their attention at once. If they will announce the one-fare-roundtrip rate the greatly increased travel on their lines will yield them a handsome profit. But if they stick to their present high rates their exceptionally fast schedules will appeal to the people in vain. A reduction in the expense of the trip, and not the time occupied in making it, is what the people want, and they are going to wait for it, even at the risk of missing the big show entirely.

The banks of the northeast have shown their fangs once too often.

The Savannah Press thinks there is a hiatus in the silver discussion. The Press will find a peg in the hole when it looks again.

Before the war, when the country had the double standard, nobody cared whether one or the other money metals left us. One was bound to stay. All the government eared for was to keep its subsidiary silver, and the wings of this it clipped.

It would be a fine thing for the Wall street goldolators if they could go a fishing at this juncture. An exchange says that bot weather is coming. Well, yes. The people propose to make it particularly hot for the money sharks before they get through with them. The business men of this country will vish our currency was on a silver basis before they get through with the demon of gold contraction. They will have an object lesson that will last them a long time.

And so Wall street and the eastern gold sharks are giving the country an object lesson, are they? We trust they will go right ahead with it. There will be no goldbugs among business men twelve months from

From The Augusta Chronicle. The free and unlimited coinage of silver is he question of the hour that must be met by our government. There is a popular de mand for the demonetization of silver. Silver was demonetized by legerdemain legislation that has not been satisfactorily explained. There is a strong suspicion that the deed was done surreptitiously by some who represented the bondholders and monometallists. It smacks of legislation for the classes as against the masses.

The party in power is piedged to bimetallism—the free and unlimited coinage of gold and sliver. There should be no evasion or juggling as to what free and unlimited coinage means. It means the restoration of sliver to the place that it occupied in the currency of this country before it was stricken down by unfriendly legislation. It means that sliver shall be coined by the government at its old ratio of fifteen and a half or rather of sixteen in sliver to one in gold.

The Constitution's Work

From The Aiken, S. C., Times. The Atlanta Constitution is working hard and more intelligently for the welfare of the masses of our people than any other daily paper in the south. It is striking sledge hammer blows for a sorely needed reform the enactment of a national law for the gradnated taxation of targe incomes. The justice ud need of such a law is recognized far and far, and its enactment will be hailed with deght by millions of the poorly paid and hialy taxed tollers of our country. The men b have piled up their millions by means of varing gigantic "deals" in the watered stock of many artificially inflated companies, and who are then put their wealth into non-taxable buds, and are drawing therefrom large income every year, should be forced to pay a graduted tax upon their riches, thereby contributing a just share to the support of the government. OPERA HOUSE.

The First Part of the Exercises Yesterday Morning in Browning Hall-To Be Concluded Todor.

It was a rare scene enacted in Browning hall yesterday morning when the first part the graduating exercises of the Girls' High school occurred.

The stage was handsomely decorated with spring flowers and plants, all of which were culled the day before and arranged in beautiful clusters upon the platform. They seem ed to be almost conscious of the office they were performing, as they peered from behind the angles of the stage and seemed to pilfer the fair young beauty in whose honor they were gathered.

Dressed in dainty white dresses, the members of the graduating class, fifty-one in number, occupied seats to the left of the stage, in the main body of the hall. The exercises began promptly at 10 o'clock, as was announced the day before by the superintendent, and the room at that hour was crowded to overflowing. The graduating exercises of the Wirls' High school are never lacking in magnetism. They always draw a crowd and that crowd represents the culture and refinement of the city.

Major Slaton, the superintendent of the schools, presided and called the different numbers of the programme. Each feature of the exercises was characterized by unusual merit, and there was not a single selection that occupied over three minutes in its rendition. Such was the varied interest of the programme, however, that the audience could have listened for two hours, instead of only one, which was all the exercises required.

The first number of gramme was a chorus by the class, entitled, "Gently Fall the Dews of Eve." As the young ladies arose from their seats and advanced to the platform they drew from the large audience a storm of p The song was rendered in beautiful con-cert, which very happily accorded with the appearance which the young ladies presented.

This was followed by a recitation, "Mariquita," by Miss Myra Robinson. It was a graceful and talented effort and the audience was not backward in expressing its approval of the excellent manner in which it was repudered.

it was rendered.

Miss Ada Lewis completely won the heart of her audience by the charming manner in which she recited "A Russian Christmas." Her voice was clear and distinct, while her graceful pose of body enabled her to carry out to perfection her beautiful interpretation of the author.

The next feature of the programme was specially good. It was a musical trio by

The next feature of the programme was specially good. It was a musical trio'by Misses Birdle Taylor, Alice Ely and Lethe Bizzell. The instruments they used were the mandolin, the banjo and the guitar. After they had finished their charming selection, which aroused the wildest enthusiasm of the audience, they were made the recipients of a long encore. The superintendent stated, however, that the young ladies would not be allowed to appear, and while he was glad to acknowledge the compliment, he was not at liberty to violate pliment, he was not at liberty to violate the rule. The audience was disappointed, but after the young ladies had made their

but after the young ladles had made their courtesy the applause subsided.

An essay by Miss Ida Guthman on the subject of "Windows" was read in excellent style and evinced a striking as well as a beautiful originality of thought.

Miss Annie Lee Price scored the next hit in a recitation entitled "Princes Imra and Goatherd." Her style was in the highest degree attractive, and she evinced a thorough conception of her difficult piece. She was very warmly applauded.

was very warmly applauded.

Next came a very delightful quartet,
"Commencement March," by Misses Kate
Darby, Hattie Buchanan, Nellie Bosworth and Bright Rowe. It was greatly enjoyed by the audience, and the young ladies retred amid a perfect ovation.

Perhaps the best recitation of all, if any distinction can be made where merit is so abundant, was the one by Miss Mary Tupper, "Jones Goes to a Picnic." Winsome, gay and animated in her style, she captured the attention of the audience even before her talents could win a higher recognition. From beginning to end she was, the recipient of marked attention, and when her graceful bow was made and she swept from the platform the enthusiasm of the audience broke forth in a regular cyclore of ence broke forth in a regular cyclope of applause.

Miss Edith Rosenbaum, in her recitation entitled "Mary of Argyle," lost nothing by comparison with Miss Tupper's excellent rendition. She spoke gracefully and with a clear, distinct enunciation which carried her voice to the furthest part of the room.

"Atlanta" was the subject of an essay by Miss Lizzie Powell, which manifestel not only her love for the Gate City, but her striking ability to give that love expression. Her little eulogy was framed in the most. striking ability to give that love expression. Her little enlogy was framed in the most delicate language, while her style of delivery was in the highest degree charming. She was given a long and appreciative congratulation by her hearers, all of whom

A chorus, "Distant Chimes," by the delightful manner, after which the audience dispersed, mentally agreeing that the entertainment was one of the most delightful of the kind they had ever altended.

Much of the success of the exercises, especially the musical part, is due to the work of Professor Davis. As the musical director of the public schools he has always

THE PISTOL WAS LOADED,

And Now a Little Girl Lies at the Point of Death.

Gainesville, Ga., June 1.—(Special.)—
Information has just reached Gainesville that quite a serious and unfortunate accident happened on yesterday on the form of Mr. G. H. Pinson, which is located beyond the Chattahoochee river about five miles north of Gainesville.

It seems that a negro boy, about eight years of age, got possession of a cheap revolver which belonged to a farm hand, and while playing with it, cocked it and pointed it at, one of Mr. Pinson's little girls, who is about seven years of age, and pulled the trigger. The load was discharged and, entering the right shoulder, ranged downward and struck the spine.

The child is alive but is in a very critical condition, as paralysis has set in, and there is now but little hope of her recovery.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

State Banks of Issue.

Editor Constitution: Your advocacy of the repeal of the prohibitory 10 per cent tax on state banks is able, fair and is tree from partisan prejudice. It will render the subject more thoroughly understood by the laboring classes who need information upon this subfect.

The importance of the subject induces me to The importance of the subject induces me to present a few additional thoughts in relation to it. I agree with you that it would afford a partial measure of relief from the oppressive evils of the national banking system. But is it the best means of relief? And why cannot a greater measure of relief be obtained in some other way? It is conceded by all disinterest. it the best means of relief? And why cannot a greater measure of relief be obtained in some other way? It is conceded by all disinterested, fair minded statesmen, I think, that the national banking system is not an economical system if we concede equal rights to the furth of the concederation. The constitution of the furth of the concederation of the furth of the small fres to check the headway of a great configuration.

State banks would enlarge the means of exchange and would assume the character of flexibility and would remain with as, but we should soon be subjected to an exchange tax. The rate of interest would not be lowered to any considerable extent, because bankers would engage in the business solely for the profits. Whereas it is the duty of the government to supply this medium of exchange without reference to profits or speculation. The means of exchange, the currency of a country, should never be subjected to the control of a corporation. Our states.nen doubtless have the ability to devise a pian by which the medium of exchange could be distributed in accordance with the demands of commerce, and demands would maintrum that distribution, provided it was freed from corporate control.

The Constitution admits that the "national commerce, and demands would mailt in 'har distribution, provided it was freed from corporate control.

The Constitution admits that the "national banking laws have outlawed our property." This alone should be a sufficient cause for the repeal of those laws. The establishment of state banks could not deliver us from the curse of outlawry. Again it is stated that "he cannot perceive any other way by which the credit and resources of the agricultural regions can be utilized." Would not the establishment of subtreasuries and postal savings banks, by the government, in such localities as the business would demand, with the view to facilitate exchange and to make advances on products or lands, with proper restrictions and limitations, at a very low rate of interest, say from 2 to 3 per cent, become a more efficient means of a solid prosperity and hasten the development of the resources of the country than the system of state banks absorbing from 7 to 12 i-2 per cent interest from the products of labor?

We do not object to combinations of money for the development of the resources of a country. But corporate control of the currency of a country, the medium of exchange always has been, and ever will be an infringement of individual rights, and detrimental to general prosperity.

They nawse obtain a larger share of the general prosperity.

They always obtain a larger share of the profits of the products of labor than the roducer.

The people and their representatives have slept over our rights until we have been rudely awakened by the howling of the wolf at the door. We have left the matter entirely in the hands of our representatives, believing in their patriotism and promises of relief, but we find the injunction to "watch as well as pray" an absolute necessity in these degenerate days.

Editor Constitution: Having read your editorial on "Money in Atlanta Dirt," If you will allow me the space I will first say that it was with a great deal of pleasure that I read the article, and will supplement the same by adding a few facts.

First, I will ask, has Atlanta real estate ever depreciated since 1873 or 1874—about the time you refer to? Has any one ever lost any money on an investment in Atlanta real estate wach they paid a reasonable price for the property! In answer to these questions I will say that property has never depreciated any here in vajue, and no one who has bought here at a reasonable price has lost on the investment, but on the contrary, has invariably realized a fine profit. It is a waste of time, and a useless waste of space in your paper to attempt to cite the thousands of instances where it has largely profited the partles investing in property here As to the matter of depression, which comes around about every ten years; why is there any necessity to feel uneasy? In 1873 and 1874 there was a depression or panic, and in 1885 and 1884 another depression or panic, and in 1885 and 1884 another depression on us. Are not these depressions really a benefit? I think they are. If it was not for a liquidating period where would speculation end? and how actitious would be the prices on some 'chok of securities'. It is just simply bringing this class or stuff down to a normal Lasis, and no one who has any first-class holdings of either real would be the prices on some tinds of securities! It is just simply bringing this class on stuff down to a normal Lasis, and no one who has any first-class holdings of either real estate or bonds or stocks need have no fear, for while they may be reduced to some extent by the tremendous drop in the other class, they will very soon recover.

How is it with Atlanta real estate during these times? Does it depreciate? No. It mays stand still for a short while, but its moves are always upwards. There is a great satisfaction that the entire south should feel at this time, and that is that speculations to a large extent closed two years ago, and the consequence is that things are on a solid basis and there is not as much money needed as would be otherwise. Are there any encouraging signs for Atlanta and the south? Is the outlook bright? In answer to this I will say yes, emphatically. The reorganization of the Terminal company, showing the confidence that the New York financiers have in the south's ability to support the idnes by the agreement to furnish the millions of dollars it requires to carry the deal through, is one of the most encouraging signs we have. Another is the united idea of bringing emigrants of good class to the south, and another is that the fact is dawning on the minds of so many northern manufacturers that the south is the best place to operate from. It is with great pleasure that I have noticed recently a considerable tendency on the part of the people to give the railroads a fair showing. I don't see how any business owned by one crowd can be operated profitably to them when another crowd has virtually the control of the business, and they are to submit to their rulings, and this is the case with the railroads in Georgia.

I never have understood why it seems a special delight to some juries to give large verdicts against railroads in the Jumerous and oftimes unjust damage suits which come up in our courts. We would be in the backwoods without the railroads, so why not treat them fairly? I have no deciding. The irrepressible and ubiquitous Jumbo Hunter made two of the cases, and the other, which is slightly different in point of fact, if not technically so, was made by Police Sergeant Slaughter, acting under the instructions of Captain Manly.

The cases made by Jumbo Hunter were those against J. W. & E. T. Hamrick, and South & Phillips, both of which firms are retailers of whisky on Decatur street. The charge entered against the two firms is that of selling "spirituous and malt liquors without license, on May 30th, and given other days."

The facts, as developed at yesterday's The facts, as developed at yesterday's trial do not show an attempt on the part of either of these two firms to evade the law, but show where they have technically violated it. Mr. R. J. Jordan, the attorney, appeared for both firms before Recorder Calhoun yesterday afternoon. He stated that no license had been issued directly to either of the firms, but the license under which they have been doing busis rectly to either of the firms, but the licenses under which they have been doing business, were issued to other parties at the same places, and the parties to whom the licenses had been issued had sold out their licenses had been issued had sold out their businesses to the firms which have fallen under Jumbo's displeasure. The cases involved a very pretty legal point, and after deliberating over it for some time. Judge Calhoun announced that he would think over the matter and announce his decision at today's court. The point involved is whether or not a liquor license can be transferred without the consent of the council. Jumbo claims that recent legislation settles that point.

The case against Saloonist J. G. Sprayberry was somewhat different. The charge was the same, but the facts, as stated by Attorney Tye, are these: W. J. Vaughn has been conducting a saloon on the corner of Decatur and Loyd streets long enough to get the business heavily hung in debt. He executed a mortgage in favor of Potts & Potts some time ago, when it was found that the accumulated indebtedness was as large as the value of the stock of found that the accumulated indebtedness was as large as the value of the stock of goods. It was agreed by the Messrs. Potts that the buiness should be transferred to J. G. Sprayberry on the 1st of July. Sprayberry took charge of the store May 12th, but says that he only took charge as an experiment. If the business did not pan out by July 1st, he was going to return it to Vaughn.

This case took the direction of the other two, and Judge Calhoun announced that he would render a decision today.

The fire, which started in Odom's store proved exceedingly disastrous, leveling to the ground the Ira street church, which stood across the street from the store, and three dwellings. Had the firemen not put a timely check to the fire, the entire block would have been

... 103 Ex-dividend. J. S. Bache & Co.'s Stock Letter. By Privade Wire to B. W. Martin, Manager.

NEW YORK, June 1.—London market was somewhat higher, but the buying was on a very finited scyle. The ratture of the Plankinton bank gave the bears another chance to attack prices, and as the short interest had been considerably reduced for the past few days, they had an easy matter before them. As we have repeatedly stated of late, there are so very few buying orders in the market that when any amount of stock is pressed ple market yields rapidly. For that reason it is a good time to be conservative. The worst feature is the continued strength of sterling exchange and the prospects are that by Saturday's steamer at least $2.000.000 gold will be exported, making a total of $700.000.000 for the week and $17.000.000 for the past three weeks. Bankers inform us that they fear this outpour will go on for several weeks to come. If this is so it will have a very decided effect upon our money market. Free gold in the treasury will probably fall below $90.000.000 by Saturday night. The news in regard to Distillers and Cattle Feeding was all of a bearish nature, and it seems as though they were continuing their tactics to give out the very worst kind of news and at the same time try to buy stock.

Mr. Greenburt is said to have spoken in the try to buy stock.

Mr. Greenhurt is said to have spoken in the most pessimistic vein, saying his mission to Chicago to sell bonds had been a dismal failure. For the present the chances are all in favor of a low market for railroads.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Cir W YORK, June 1-In Manchester for cotton goods is reported by the patches, and the increased purchases by Lancashire planers in Liverpool confirms both the public and private cables of a better feeling in commercial circles. The merchants of India and in Chias have indeed waited a long time before appearing in the Manchester market as buyers, and as the largest tailing off in the export of cotton cloths since the beginning of the year is to those markets, their buying is ithought to indicate the commencement of a continued demand. Our exporters report an increased demand for shipping to the continuent and Great Britain, and find the southern merchants willing to part with the cotton they have so long held at present prices. Sales in Liverpool today amounted to 14,000 bales, of which 13,000 bales were to spinners and 12,000 bales American, with the quotation for middling cotton the same as year ago, while the cotton for forward delivery is quoted from 1@8-64d below the quotations then ruling. These quotations are leg-2-54d above yesterday's closing prices, and our market was surprised at the strength of the Liverpool market, as the large stock there was considered sufficient to prevent any advance. Spinners, however probably hold very small reserve supplies, as their takings for the vertain worths have been remarkably small. cient to prevent any advance. Spinners, however probably hold very small reserve supplies, as their takings for the past six months have been remarkably small, while the distrust in financial circles has prevented any anticipation of the future requirements by the joint stock mills. The Houston Post is stated to have issued an estimate of the condition of the crop in Taxas and the probable increase in acreage in that state. As stated in the press dispatches the increase in acreage is estimated as equal to 8 per cent, and 70 per cent of their replies state the stand to be good, while 30 per cent report the stand as poor. Heavy rains have lailent. The Cumberland has risen 5 feet at Nashville, while the Arkansas river has risen 5 feet at Fort Smith and 6 feet at Little Rock. The government reports the Missiasippi river to be failing from Arkansas City to while the Arkanssa river has rises at Fort smith and 4 iteet at Little Rock. The government reports the Mississippi river to be falling from Arkansas City to Vicksburg as a result of the water passing through the crevasses on the Arkansas side. Dispatches from New Orleans and Memphis take an optimistic view of the river conditions and do not anticipate any serious damage from the overflow. Our market opened steady at 364 points advance from the closing quotations of yesterday, advancing 364 points further until August delivery touched 7.46, at which point the report of a failure of a bank in Milwaukee created apprehension of further distrust causing a decline of 3 points. The trade here is very certain that the present visible supply of cotton, together with the depressod feeling over the country, will prevent any further advance under adverse crop reports; and, holdidg these views, are disposed to operate for a further decline in prices. The highest prices of the cotton year were touched on the last days of November. 1852, and from the quotations then ruling there has been a steady decline for six months, reaching the lowest point, quotations that were 3 b-13c below the prices then current. Naturally a very pessimistic feeling exists throughout the trade, and crop accounts are cast aside as something of no moment on the ist of Juna with summer weather beand crop accounts are cast aside as something of moment on the lst of June with summer weather be fore us. On the 10th of last June the agricultural defore us. On the 10th of last June the agricultural de-partment stated their reports abowed a reduction in acreage of 18 3-10 per cent with a condition of 85.9. The Fnancial Chronicle estimates the reduction in acreage at 11.88 per cent. What will the department say next of the acreage for this season and the condi-tion of the crop. During the afternoon the market re-covered all that it had lost upon the news of the west-ern failure, and closed quite firm at the highest of the day and solo points better that last evening's figures. Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Circular. NEW YORK, June 1- Special. The further im-provement in Liverpool, together with the increased sales and continued steadiness in that market, was plainly reflected in ours today. August opened points higher at 7.48 and fluctuated between that price points higher at 7.48 and fluctuated between that price and 7.40 during the morning hours. When it was seen that Liverpool had closed steady, holding her advance, the inclination of the shorts to cover increased and, although there was no rush to buy, prices gradually hardened until August had sold at 7.45. The close was firm at about the best prices, 7.54 being being bid for August. All eyes are now directed to Liverpool. If the advance there continues tomorrow we are likely to go higher.

J. S. Bache & Co.'s Cotton Letter. J. S. Bache & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

NEW YORK, June 1-Our market opened as a fractional advance and ruled steady all day with a more active trade. Liverpool was encouraging, the market there being firm and spot also better, with sales reaching 14,000 bales. There are still some complaints coming in about too much rain, and the rivers are still rising, but the reports taken altogether are very conflicting. We think prices fully discount the large stocks. The demand for spots here remains fair, and Liverpool shows a very steady undertone. We advise purchases on weak spots.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, June 1.—There was a howling in the wheat pit today. For a moment at the opening the trade thought they had a buil market on their hands, but within an hour the bottom dropped out. There was a break of nearly 3 cents. The next thing to a panic ensued among the longs who could not get the wheat off their hands hat enough. The market started with a burge of 1-541-3. When the floor fairly gave way and dropped the buils into the basement it reft July at 08-34- and september at 12-98. The strong opening was on higher Liverpool cables and some buil cultusms in the tower from last might. The decime was like a toboggan trip, slow at first, but with a great dash before the end of the slide was reached. New York reported no foreign business. The Price Current wired that farmers were selling out their old wheat freely because they had grown discouraged and Liverpool stocks were cabled as nearly double those of a year ago. This blue news started the whole trade to selling, and when July got to the extreme low point of yesterday morning the buils gave it up. Cudahy put all the brokers he could command into the pit to let wheat go. He had a great quantity sold for Wright, and the market went to 70c in a minute. Mitchell, who is the last built in the trade to run, dumped fully 500,000 bushels of wheat and the commission house brokers dug down in their pockets for cards containing stop loss orders. There was a host of them placed to sell at 70c, and this started a merry chase. Wheat could not be sold and the price went to 69-14. Then came a breathing speil and a 1-2c raily by the sensational news that the Plankington bank, at Milwaukee, had falled. This brought on a fresh storm and the price went to 67-3-4c in a minute. Better export news, lighter receipts promised for the near future, a statement that the Milwaukee bank had not failed. but had gone into liquidation and would pay dollar for dollar, and the market got a rule of the plankington bank as probab old, old story. If any one wanted to buy the market went up, and if any one wanted to sell the course of things was suddenly reversed and it went down with a run, especially for pork. At the close the market ruled steady. Pork, compared with yesterday, closed 60c higher for September. September lard is 17 1-2c higher and September ribs Trains from This City-Central Time.

CHICAGO, June 1.—The wheat market opened around yesterday's closing figures and remained firm for a short time. Cables reported foreign markets unchanged. Soon there came rumors of bank failures, including the Plankiston, of Milwaukee. The market declined to about 70c, where it met large lines of stop orders and became the sickest of the sick. Holders were completely discouraged and below 70c there was large liquidation of July. The Cincinnati Price Current attributes part of this to fear of weavil. It makes but little difference what the causes are, there is a general disposition to realize It makes but little difference what the causes are, there is a general disposition to realize on anything that will bring money, and wheat seems to be the most ready thing to convert, and until this liquidation ceases there can be no hope for better prices. The sales today for June delivery at 66-1-2 we believe are the lowest that have ever been made on the Chicago market for No. 2 wheat. The price, however, will cut no figure until parties long of July wheat and unable to pay for it have nearly liquidated. Corn and oats were very strong and receivers had no trouble to dispose of all their sample lots at about yesterday's figures. The speculative price for futures was depressed a little in sympathy with the decline in wheat. Packers were able to sell a few ribs at about yesterday's offering price, otherwise the advance in speculative futures for September had no effect on the legitimate provision trade-a Receipts of hogs are lighter, probably due to the prevailing rains throughout the west the last few days and the break in prices of hogs at the yards.

BELLS. WEDDING

The June-Time Brings Many of the Interesting Events.

MISS ADALENE ADAIR AND MR. FIELDS.

Mr. Dunn'and Miss France; Mr. Moore and Miss Matthews; Mr. Lang and Miss Rose-Other Society News.

The wedding of Mr. Julian Field and Misa Adalene Adair was impressive and brilliant. The ceremony was performed at half past 8 octock last eventur at the home of the bride, on Washington street, and was witnessed by a large number of friends and relatives. The mansion which is large and charmingly arranged for such an occasion, was thrown open, brilliantly Huminated and adorned with many flowers. The library had lovely arrangement of palms in the bow window at d sleoves, and sweet peas and roses filled nurerous bowls and vases. The supper room merous bows and vases. The supper room was adorned in white and green, and the large table was lovely with its abundance of white roses, its bride cakes and ornaments of cut

The ceremony was performed in the drawing on the right which was thrown into wide corridor and library by means of ing doors. The bridal party entered from rear and the bride and groom stood be-h an archway of ferns and Marguerites, neath an archway of ferns and Marguerites, while the beautiful marriage service vas performed by Dr. McDonald, assisted by the Rev. Mr. John Hammond. Mr. Blewett Lee and Mr. Richard A. Miller were the ushers Mr. Hooper Alexander was best man and Miss Laura Adair was maid of honor.

Miss Adalene Adair has always been considered an extremely handsome girl, but on this occasion she surpassed herself. Her dazingly white, babyish complexion, er dark, languorous eyes, and the soft insasses of her dusky hair made her a bride worthy the immortal cauvas of a great painter. Her gown was of heavy duchesse satin, made princesse, with a front of duchesse lace, caught diagonally from the bust down the left side with a garniture of orange blossoms. Her veil was confined by a wreath of orange blossoms, as in her hands she carried a big bouquet of sweet white peas. No jewels were worn with and in her hands she carried a big bounder of sweet white pens. No jewels were worn with the toilet which was most elegant and chaste. Miss Laura Adair was very lovely in her oridesmaid gown of white organdie with fills and sleeves of white satin. Her flowers were

After the ceremony the happy pair received their many and sincere congratulations, and en elegant supper was served at 11 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Field departed for Chicago. Miss Adalene Adair entered society here a few seasons ago moder most charming conditions. She is the eldest daughter of Mr. A. D. Adair, one of the wealthlest and most prominent citizens in Atlanta, and everything that fortune and bright surroundings could bestow belonged to the life of this backy girl, who within her own presimality held all the no, within her own personality held all the arms to make herself the belle it at she be-me. She has received a great deal of love-attention here and in all the other cities she has visited, and the man who has won such a lovely and lovable woman for his cwh certainly deserves to be envied by many of his fellows.

Mr. Julian Field is one of the best known and most brilliant young men in Georgia. He is also blessed with a great amount of good is also blessed with a great amount of good looks and has a very attractive and striking personality. He is the nephew of Judge Henry Hillyer, of Atlanta, whose 'amily is reted for its personal comeliness and mental brilliancy. Mr. Field is one of Atlanta's successful young business men. Certainly a marriage more thoroughly congenial was never made. Many elegant presents were received.

Moore-Matthews.

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon a lovely wedding was solemnized when Miss Caroline Ward Matthews was united in merriage to Mr. Victor A Moore by Dr. McDonald.

The ceremony was performed at the handsome old colonial home of the bride in West End and was witnessed by a number of near friends and relatives. The mansion was darkened and brilliantly lighted and the wide hallways and lofty apartments had their artistle furnishings enhanced by a profusion of exquisite flowers. Popples, roses and sweet peas were the principal flowers used and these filled the bowls and vases placed upon mantels and tables in the two drawing rooms.

leg room, the bride and groom standing in front of a bank of palms and ferns. There were no formal attendants. Mr. A. J. Camp was best man and Miss Annie Adair entered upon his arm and held the bride's bouquet during the service.

Miss Matthews was radiantly handsome in a gown of tan cloth with an artistic brown and tan hat to match. Bride roses and maid-and tan hat to match. Bride roses and mald-cenhair ferns formed her bouquet.

Delightful refreshments were served after the wedding. The bride's table in the re-freshment room was exquisite. The center place was a circular arrangement of white flowers, the outer edge of which was formed of double white hollyhocks that resembled the silk rosettes on a lady's frock. The other flowers used were rare white dainty blos-soms and the table was adorned with many cakes, cut glass ornaments and candelabras. Very many elegant presents were received.
The groom's gift was an upright grand plano.
At 3 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Moore left for their wedding journey, after which they will go to Petsacola, Fla., the present home of the of Miss Matthews's friends sincerely All of Miss Matthews's friends sincerely regret the fact that her marriage will take her away from Atlanta. She is so sincerely beloved and admired here and she has that sort of bright, charming, gifted nature that is a constant source of pleasure and interest to those about her. Her place cannot be filled y another among her friends. She is a very diented young woman, a fine instrumental usician, a linguist and a lord of all that is fine in literature and art. To her gifts there is added a splendid woman's nature, steadfast and tender. She will make a happy future for the control of the and tender. She will make a nappy for the man she has chosen.

Mr. Moore is a delightful man, handsome many and many and many and and attractive personally and manly and magnetic in his nature. He is intellectual and possesses all the fine traits that a woman seeks in her ideal. He has been very successful financially and is a partner in a leading hardware firm in Pensacola. Dunn-Frazier.

The wedding which united Miss Hannle Frazler to Mr. Blackburn Dunn yesterday afternoon at the lovely home of the bride, in West End, was a beautiful and impressive one. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. Y. Jamison in the drawing room beneath a vine-wreathed archway ornamented in the center with a wish bone of exquisite white flowers. The bride and groom were preceded by iwo The bride and groom were preceded by two little pages, Clarke Frazler and Wallace Haskell, who were artistically dressed in black velvet shits with lace runles and satin vests. Barrett-Weems.

A pretty ceremonial was that at St. Philip's early yesterday morning when Mr. Ernest R. Barrett and Miss Ellabelle Weems were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed at 7:30 in the presence of a large number of friends. Dean Barrett was the officiating minister. There were no attendants, but the English custom of signing the marriage certificate was gone through with, the signers being Dr. Olmstead. Tr. E. P. King, Mr. J. W. Barrett and Ma. Phillips Jones. The bride wore a handsome travelting suit of golden brown silk. Miss Weems is a charming and exceedingly popular young lady, who has hosts of friends to extend heartiest congratulations to the man who has been so fortunate as to win her. Mr. Barrett is a well-known and highly successful young business man, and a man of sterling qualities and charming personality.

Palmer-Bulce.

A beautiful wedding was solemnized last night at St. Paul's church, on Hunter street. The contracting parties were Miss Alma Buice and Mr. B. E. Palmer, of this city.
The following were the ushers: Messrs. C. O. Wellborn, J. V. Wellborn, W. P. Streeter and John Finley. The attendants were Forrest Palmer and Miss Genie Freeman, of Chârlette; Julian Christian and Miss Minnle Waters, of Rome; Charles Orr and Miss Salle Hudsbeth, D. B. Moerry and Miss Fannie Clemont, Will Orr and Miss Kate Bulce.
Mr. E. H. Turner was the best mait and Nettle Waters the maid of honor.
The cerémony was performed by Rev. Mr. Rell in a most attractive and solemn manner and the sanctuary was crowded with the friends of the contracting parties.
Miss Bulce is one of Atlanta's most beautiful and attractive young daughters. She has spent the whole of her life in this city and is greatly beloved by her many friends for her many noble and unselfish qualities.
Mr. Palmer is a young man of fine promise and of excellent business qualifications. He has taken a fine stand already and the future bas a brilliant outlook for him. Mr. Palmer is a brother of Mr. Howard Palmer, of this city.

Twitcheil-Wallace.

At high noon resterday an interesting wedding occurred at the Central Presbyterian chufch, the contracting parties being Mr. Ernest Twitchell, of Cincinnati, and Miss Maude Wallace. Rev. E. B. Strickler was the officiating minister and only relatives and immediate friends were present. Miss Wallace is a daughter of Colonel A. M. Wallace and is a charming and popular young lady. Mt. Twitchell is a prominent chemist of Cincinnati.

The Story from Memphis. Memphis. Tenn., June 1.—(Special.)—Memphis turned the tables on Atlanta today, taking the second game of the series. The loss of the game was largely due to Dewald, who was in the box for the visitors, he giving men bases on balls and allowing hits at critical points in the game. The work of Ely at short was also of a yellow-tinted character, several errors being charged up to Ely at short was also of a yellow-tinted character, several errors being charged up to him that worked disaster to the Atlantas. Taken as a whole, the work of the Atlanta team, both at the bat and in the field, was far inferior to the exhibition Tuesday and was a matter of surprise to those who witnessed them defeat Memphis so easily in the first game. Murphy worked hard behind the bat, but his support was so rocky that he lost hearf and temper in the eighth lining and deliberately threw the ball way out into left field, allowing two men to cross the home plate. For this exhibition of childishness Manager Murray gave Murphy a sharp call down and fine and sent him to right field down and fine and sent him to right field and Dixon going in to eatch. Augusta Won in the Ninth.

New Orleans, June 1.—(Special.)—Augusta succeeded in dragging down the last game of the series with the locals. German is without doubt one of the speediest pitchers in the league, but his enormous quantity of speed which he put in his balls today come near loosing the game, for in the first inning three two-base hits were made, and later in the game Root and Campau plainted the bail in the bleacher's for home runs. The Augustas are fast players, but the locals can field wits as much speed. Umpire Forster, with his usual regularity, damaged the scores of both teams by his lack of firmities and ability. The Pelicans pounded the ball all over the field and had Camp been in condition he would have been called upon to pitch a portion of the game. New Orleans had the better of the game and it seemed as though Augusta would be better three successive games, but the Pelicans became hungry and not beling able to leave they contented theinselves by sleepting in the field, but the fast finish of the Georgians awakened them just as the winning rea was scored.

IVES LEADING ROBERTS

In the International Billiard Match London.

London, June 1.—The international billiard match between Ives and Roberts was con-tinued today. Ives did magnificent work this evening. He got the balls jammed and scored 154 in one run. His playing throughout the evening, moreover, was neater and steadler than before or since beginning the match. The score now stands. Ives (still playing), 4,001, Roberts 3,484.

4,001, Roberts 3,484.

The attendance was good and both men played well. Roberts's first runs were 34, 13, 21, 24; Ives's 19, 15, 19, 39, Ives then fell off, his best runs being 25 and 45, while Roberts made such runs as 67, 49, 21, 31, 34, and 130.

Roberts made such runs as 01, 49, 21, 31, 34 and 139.

After making ten caroms, Ives finally got the balls wedged at the tipper right-hand pocket and played from one to the other with the utmost lightness of touch. When the play was adjourned the balls were in the same position. Ives will continue his run tomorrow. The long run was exceedingly monotonous. The spectators and many billard experts professed that such playing ought to be barred.

THE BICYCLE RACES.

The Atlanta Delegation Returns from Cumberland.

The Atlanta delegation to the Cumberland island race meet, very much sun-burnt and freekled, with the sand of the Cumberland beach still clinging to their wheels, arrived home yesterday.

Some of them came on the morning train of the East Tennessee, others on the afternoon train. If anybody expected them to arrive low in spirits on account of the failure of the race meet he was mistaken; for a jollier crowd never jumped from a train. crewd never jumped from a train.

Joe Johnson, the editor of the bright local bicycle paper, was in the gang, while L. W. Dimick, Brodnax, Stanley and several other local wheelmen completed the party from the seashore.

A Constitution man, inquiring of Mr. Johnson about the meet, got the following started the afficiency.

story of the affair:

"Our party arrived at the island Sunday morning. Although there were only a few of us, several boats were due before the of us, several boats were the boats were commencement of the races, and we hoped that the crowd would come. They never showed up. Added to this disappointment, rain set in Monday at dinner and contin-

rain set in Monay at unner and continued till night.

"On Thesday there were only about twenty whether present, and but three or four of these expressed a determination to enter the races. It was easy to see that the meet had failed.

"Not desiring, however, to disappoint those who had come to contest, we decided to get up special races, but at the same time to eall the regular meet off. On Tuesday morning some of the races on the first day's programme were run. This could not have been done under the original programme, since the League of American Wheelmen rules forbid a postponement unless special sanction is granted by the general racing board.

"Therefore, you see the three races that were run had nothing to do with the intended meet.
"Cook, of Brunswick, who, by the way, it could be a supported by the way.

"Cook, of Brunswick, who, by the way, is a promising rider, won the quarter-mile race, and Adams, a youthful, but fast little sprinter from Jacksonville, the one-mile and the two-mile race.

"Chauncey Foote, for the sake of preventing a race from falling through, entered the quarter-mile race with Cook, but with no intention of hitting the scratch on a spurt, and Brodnax did the same thing on the two-mile race." "What was the cause of the failure?"

on the two-mile race."

"What was the cause of the failure?" asked the reporter.

"It was too early in the season. Brunswick sent but three or four men. We expected a large crowd from that place, but the financial depression spoiled the excursion. The date, too, coming at the end of the month had its influence."

The failure of the meet had but little dampening effect on the boys spirits. They had a score of tales to tell of hunting, fishing and sailing adventure. Ned Chalfant and W. F. Moss, of Atlanta, turned over a three-hundred-pound sea turtle on the beach Wednesday night. They shipped him home. A big pelican was among the captures, while the fish and crabs caught were too numerous even for counting.

The boys say they might have been disappointed if the delights of the sea and shore had not been there to fall back on, but now the fun they had in a general way seems full compensation for the dismal result of the race meet.

TROUBLE IN PELHAM,

And It Was All Caused by the Arrival of Bicycle.

Camilla, Ga., June 1.—(Special.)—Polham has a sensation. The first bicycle that ever made its appearance there arrived a few days since and the whole town turend out to welcome it. Mr. J. Robert Forrester, Jr., is the man who owns it and here is the way it worked on its arrival as told by the Pelham correspondent of The Clarion. "Bob got on her and took a little spin down Railroad street just to let the boys know how she'd go and she went. Finally something got out of 'skewgee,' and back Bob went to the office to get the tool chest, or whatever you call it; anyhow he got it, but when he went to buckle it onto the machine how she'd go and she went. Finally something got out of 'skewgee,' and back Bob went to the office to get the too't chest, or whatever you call it; anyhow he got it, but when he went to buckle it onto the machine no place could be found to hitch onto, so he called in the local tinner to fasten on the box. In the meantime several men had gathered round making suggestions? Brother Barrow allowed that the box was to hang onto that thing in front of the haudles, but Bob said that was the brake and that he thought they had left off the thing it was to hang onto. Mr. Jim Hurst said the thing went on behind because all others he ever saw was hung on behind. After awhile the box was buckled onto the only place where it didn't look it should go on and it fit. Then Brother Barrow said he wanted to see her go some more and Bob got on her and down Grand avenue he went in grand shape. Parson Green said he thought she wabbled too much and was too low in the quarters, but Brother Barrow said she was all right, for that was the way she ought to be. So the first thing we knew here she came back, and Bob brought her up in front of the store with a grand flourish.

"Parson Green looked her over and said the tire was mashed too flat, so Bob said he guessed she had lost some wind, but he could fix that all right. So he pulled out the end of his tool chest and got out something that looked like a silver squirt gun with a piece of macaroni on the end of it and with these he untwisted the faucet on the hose pipe around the wheel and swish! out came the wind of the thing and kerilop went the hose as flat as a pancake. Then he took the macaroni-looking concern and twisted it into the faucet and began to work the handle of the gun. He worked and worked till the hose swelled up tight like it was going to burst and then the coundrum was to take off the gun and to leave the wind in the hose.

"But Bob said he could fix that, so he told Joe D. Stewart when he pulled the gin off to slap his finger on the hole in the faucet. Then he pulled her

Charles Jones Wants the Possession of the Infant.

BUT THE JUDGE WON'T INTERFERE

As There Is a Divorce Suit Pending in the Superior Court-Other News Gathered at the Courthouse.

The case of Charles Jones against Mrs. Pinkey Jones for the possion of their child, came up for hearing yesterday before Judge Westmoreland, but he was unable to take any action whatever in the matter. In his bill, filed by Mayson and Hill, Charles Jones set forth that he wanted to get possession of the child. The child, he alleged, was now in the possion of Pinkey Jones. He stated also in the petition, that me was living with her father and had no means of support for either herself or Chirles Jones claims that his wife deserted him after only a couple of years of married life, but there appears to be another side to this airing of family troubles, and domestic trials and tribulations.

It appears that there is now pending in the superior court a suit brought against Charles Jones by Pinkey Jones, for divorce. In this suit Mrs. Jones asks that she be given custody of the child. In consideration of the fact that the settlement of the very question agitated by Mr. Jones was pending in the superior court, Judge Westroreland stated that he could take no action in the matter.

Mr. Hill, of Mayson and Hill, then Mr. Hill, of Mayson and Hill, then stated that his client desired to be allowed to see the child every week, but Judge Westmoreland still declined to interfere, on the grounds that the superior court had now before it the disposition of the points being contended before him.

He Still Feels Young. Mr. S. B. Love, of the tax collector's of-fice, celebrated the fiftieth year of his mar-ried life. Mr. Love turned seventy-five ried life. Mr. Love turned seventy-five years only a few months ago, but he is as bright and chipper as a man of fifty years. He says that it doesn't seem to him as if he had been married more than a week and a half, despite the fact that he has great-grandchildren. The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Love wish them many more anniversaries of their wedding day.

Found for the Plaintiff.

In the case of Younghlord and Hass.

In the case of Youngblood and Haas against Morris Slattery before Judge Westmoreland yesterday, a verdict was returned for the plaintiffs. It appears that Slattery ordered Youngblood and Haas to Slattery ordered Youngblood and Haas to buy some futures for him. They did so, but everything went against Slattery, and his career as a speculator did not mark him as an especially fortunate man, as he came out of the investment in the usual manner, through the small end if the horn.

Slattery claimed that Youngblood and Haas bought stocks that he did not order, and refused to ante up. The courts were resorted to with the result that Slattery must pay over a goodly sum to the plain-

It Was Withdrawn.

The case of W. H. McClaîn against the East Tennessee road for damages was in hearing before Judge Marshall Clarke yested with the state of the terday, but it was withdrawn by the plain-tiff's attorneys. McClain wanted damages because, he alleged, that the road had run through property belonging to him without first condemning the land. It was withdrawn as the property was not properly described in the plaintiff's petition.

AN ESTIMABLE LADY GONE.

Mrs. J. R. Murphy Dies at Her Home on Thursday evening at about 11:30 o'clock Mrs. J. R. Murphy, a very estimable young lady, died at her home, 267 East Cain street. She leaves a husband and an infant about ten days old. Mrs. Murphy was greatly beloved, not only by the people of her immediate neighborhood, but by a very wide circle of friends throughout the city. She was a member of the Nixet. the city. She was a member of the First Methodist church, a devoted Christian, charitable and kind to all. A loving and comforting wife, she was a bright ray of sunshine in her home.

The funeral will take place this morning from the residence 267 East Cain street. The interment will be at Westview.

CUSTOM HOUSE NOTES.

An important bill was filed in the clerk's office yesterday morning, which involves a consucrative sum of money. It was the petition of the Manhattan Trust Company against the Augusta Mining and Investment Company for the foreclosure of a mortgage amounting to $450,000. The mortgage was given by the company to secure the payment of bonds to this amount. Mr. Charles W. Haskins, who was receiver in a former case for the defendant company, was appointed by Judge Newman yesterday as receiver in the present suit. The bill was filed by Mr. B. H. Hill.

' Another batch of moonshiners was sent Another batch of moonshiners was sent up yesterday, and another lot will be added to that number today. The court has been occupied throughout the week in the trial of revenue cases and the proceedings have had but little variety. There were eight convictions yesterday in the federal court.

The present grand jury, which has been empaneled for nearly three months, during the greater part of which time it has been occupied with the investigation of the Redwine case, will probably be disalssed this morning for the term. The foreman of the jury is Mr. C. S. Kingsberry and the secretary Mr. H. G. Sanders, the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. The jury has had a great deal of hard work and its vacation will be well deserved when it comes. Nothing but revenue cases have come before the jury during the last few days.

A well-known official of the custom house, a democrat, in speaking of an anonymous comment concerning the colored officials of the custom house, said yesterday:

"I think the comment was below the belt. I do not hesitate to say that Wimbish, the republican surveyor of customs, should be replaced at once by a democrat, but there is a right way and a wrong way to do everything, and whatever may be said of Wimbish's offensive partisanship, there is no doubt that he is doing his best, and that he is neither domineering nor dictatorial in his disposition. It is true that he comes under the category of offensive partisans, and has always been a very active republican, in and out of office, but it is not true that his office is made a lounging place for negroes, either male or female. Wimbish has endeavored to do his duty, and I say this in his behalf, simply because I think he is entitled to justice."

It is The Constitution's observation that Collector Wimbish, while being decidedly vigorous in his political affiliation has always been respectful and attentive to his duties. It gladly testifies to the apparent sincerity of his efforts to administer the affairs of his office in a satisfactory manner.

Replies to an Article of Ros. N.J. Hammo in The Constitution Editor Constitution—Hon. N. J. Hammond, in an article "Does Our State Constitution Make Religion a Despicable Affair?" which appeared in your issue of the 14th Instant, has criticised an article of mine which appeared in The Wesleyan Christian Advocate under date of November 28, 1892.

under date of November 28, 1892.

In the first place he says that this attack can have no weight with the public because of the author; for his name is withheld and his indentity is not disclosed. But this, too, was published in The Wesleyan Christian Advocate without comment or dissent. So sent forth it also challenges serious attention. As it appeared, this article of mine was signed simply with my initials; but, if I remember aright, the manuscript was signed with my full name when it went to the printer. I have always made it a rule to write no anomynous communications in the public prints, but to send forth my writings over my own signature, in order that lings over my own signature, in order the there may be a responsible author. I own the authorship of this article, n that my name will give any weight to the matter of the article, but for the purpose of assuming full responsibility for the same, and to make reply to Colonel Hammond's and to make types attack thereon.

It is unnecessary for me to quote as much of my article as Colonel Hammond did. I wrote, "We can't ask the state to aid, for wrote, "We can't ask or under the ban of wrote, "We can't ask the state to aid, for religious institutions are under the ban of the state constitution. We can only look to voluntary endowment. Religion is such a despicable affair that none of its institutions despicable affair that none of its institutions can be assisted by the state, not in the least."

After quoting the above and more, he says: "Can it be that our present state constitution puts religious institutions under its ban, and makes religion despicable?" Afterwards he says: "According to Webster ban means interdiction, prohibition, curst, excommunication, anathems." cation, anathema

He concludes his article thus: "In so dis passionate a criticism to harshly characterize the article under review would be unseemly, but its author can blame none but himself if the facts of history demonstrate that he

if the facts of history demonstrate that he has slandered the commonwealth of Georgia, which General Toombs was wont to call 'the grand old mother of us all.'"

The most unseemly thing a dispassionate critic, not in the heat of passion, but when he is calmy cogitating and felicitating himself upon his dispassionateness, is to misrepresent the humble author whom he is calmly constituting it makes little difference whether castigating. It makes little difference whethe the misrepresentation is intentional or unin-tentional. My purpose in writing that ar-ticle was to try and induce the Georgia con-ferences of the Methodist church, south, to make an assessment for the endowment of Emory college, an institution of learning which belongs to that denomination in Geor-gia and Florida. I set forth the need of its endowment as well as I could, and urged voluntary endowment as the only possible means of accomplishing this end.

The language I used must be construed in connection with the subject matter of my article. "We can't ask the state to aid," I wrote, "for religious institutions are under the ban of the state constitution. We can only look to voluntary endowment. Religion is such a despicable affair that none of its institutions can be assisted by the state, not in the least." How under the ban of the state constitution? No fair construction can twist my language into meaning that religions. twist my language into meaning that religious institutions are under the ban of the state constitution in the sense that this 70strument altogether interdicts, prohibits, curses, excommunicatés and anathematizes these institutions. But religious institutions of learning and all others are under the bar of that instrument, so far as state aid and encouragement are concerned. In the sense that the constitution interdicts and prohibits the appropriation of any money from the public treasury in aid of any religious in-stitutions, they are under the ban of that instrument. That this is true, no man, sanc or insane, will deny.

It may be well to review this subject of "Religious Liberty" in Georgia in its constitutional aspects, and to examine the part which the Hon. N. J. Hammond has taken in shaping the growth of this part of constitutional law. The charter of Georgia, granted by George II in 1732, contained this provision: "That forever hereafter there shall be a liberty of conscience allowed in the wor-ship of God to all persons inhabiting or which shall inhabit or be resident within our said province, and that all such persons, except papists, shall have a free exercise of religion, so they be contented with the quiet and peaceful enjoyment of the same, not giving offense or scandal to the government." So far as Georgia is concerned, there is the origin of its "Religious Freedom."

I have not the constitutions of 1776 and 1789 before me, and cannot give their pro-

1789 before me, and cannot give their provisions on this subject.

The constitution of 1798 contained this provision: "No person within this state shall, upon any pretence, be deprived of the mestimable privilege of worshipping God in a manuer agreeable to his own conscience, a manner agreeable to his own conscience, nor be compelled to attend any place of worship, contrary to his own faith and judgment, nor shall he ever be obliged to paytitles, taxes or any other rates, for the building or repairing any place of worship, or for the maintenance of any minister or ministry contrary to what he believes to be right, or hath voluntarily engaged to do. No one rengious society shall ever be established in this state in preference to another, nor shall any person be denied the enjoyment of any civil right merely oil account of his believes principle."

Inis article embraced every provision that a just constitutional enactment on the sub-

a just constitutional enactment on the subject of religious licerty should contain. 1. It secured to the citizen the inestimable privilege of worshipping God according to the dictates of his own conscience. 2. It prohibited taxation for the support of religion contrary to the belief of the tax payer. 3. It iorbade an established church. "No one religious society shall ever be established in this state in preference to another." Neither religiou nor refugious for the tenure of any office; and no religion shall be established by law, and no citizen shall be established by law, and no citizen shall be deprived of any right or privilege by reason of his religious belief." This is admirably put. In the constitution of 1865 this is the provision: "Perfect freedom of religious sentiment shall be and the same is hereby secured, and no inhabitant of this state shall ever be molested in person or property, or prohibited from holding any public office, or trust, on account of his religious opinions, but the liberty of conscience hereby secured shall not be so construed as to excuse acts of licentiousness or justify practices inconsistent with the peace or safety of the people."

1. The doption of this constitution neither religion nor religious institutions of any kind were under any constitutions of any kind were under any constitutions of any kind were under any constitutions of any titutions. This policy prohibited an established church, any religious test or qualification for the holding of any pure office or trust, titles or taxes for the rection and the support of ministers, the establishment of any one religious society in preference to any one religious mixture. The act of February 25, 1784, which created the counties of Franklin and Washington, and which was the first step taken to variety, contained as a preamble to the section giving 20,000 acres of land in these two counties as an endowment to this institution. This language is employed: "It should, therefore, be among the first objects of those who wish well any abuse. The legislatures of the state had never been tarish in such expenditures of the public treasury. Will Colonel Hammond, while he is engaged in writing the constitutional history of the state, and is induiging in his constitutional reminiscences, tell why it was thought important thus to aim a blow at the encouragement of religion and religious institutions?

This provision interdicts the taking, directly or indirectly, from the public treasury of any money in ald of any denominational institution. This prohibits any direct appropriation of public money to Mercer university, Wesleyan Female college, Emory college, Agnes Scott institute, or any religious institution of learning of a sectarian character. But this is not all. Public money cannot go indirectly to these institutions. This provision does not permit the state to present to these colleges and seminaries of learning, the reports of our supreme court, the acts of our general assembly, the messages and documents of the executive department of the state. To print these publications takes money from the public treasury. To give these publications to these sectarian institutions is to indirectly take money from the public treasury in their ald by giving them books and documents which ought to be in every well regulated library.

Now, I submit to the candid judgment of the reached a low ebb when great, dispassionate, and venerable lawmakers deem it proper to put upon them such a prohibition. The encouragement of religion and of religious institutions must indeed be despised and become despicable when the state is prohibited from alding them directly or indirectly.

Why should Baptists. Presbyterians, Christians, Catholies, Unitarians and Methodists be taxed to support non-sectarian and irreligious institutions of learning, contrary to their faith and judgment, while not one cent of the taxes paid by them can go directly or indirectly in aid of their institutions of learning of learning contrary to their faith and judgment in attendance on each, or up

Now, do the facts of history demonstrate that I have slandered this great commonwealth? Religious institutions seem to have been despised by the framers of the constitution of 1877, if we can judge from their works. works.

In view of the above facts, what becomes of his charge, that I am a slanderer of the state? I submit that these facts show that I am not, and that the charge is untrue. What, then, is Colonel Hammond?

Carrying Dispatches.

A NOVEL FEATURE FOR THE CAMP. Georgia's Army Can Handle Dispatches a a Speed of Eighteen Miles an Hour By Means of Relays.

When Georgia's volunteer army goes into camp this summer at Griffin it will probably have something new in the form of a bi-

Military men keep up with the times and whatever comes along that promises to be serviceable they experiment with. In the Franco-German war balloons were found to be useful. Carrier pigeons have served well at times. A general in days of old introduced elephants, but they got rattled and the experiment was disastrous. Nowadays when an army advances it carries its telegraph lines along and is enabled to keep up communication with the country behind. But for a great deal of dispatch work nothing answers the purpose so well as the aide mounted on a speedy horse.

But horses are expensive. They eat and a bicycle does not. They present more tar-get area than a wheel. In every volunteer command now there are wheelmen and i is easy to organize a squad of cyclers for dispatch or other work.

Yesterday a proposition was made to Lieutenant Satterlee in regard to making an experiment at the camp with wheelmen this year. The lieutenant said that he would be glad to have the feature for a day or two and test it. Mr. Law, of the Gate City Guard, said that he thought that two fours could be raised from the Guard. It was suggested that they carry a dispatch from the camp to the governor, at the capitol, by relays. Mr. Law stated that the distance could be covered at the rate of eighteen miles an hour, with four or five men stationed ten miles apart. It is about forty miles from the statehouse to Camp Northen, and the wheelmen say that they can carry a dispatch from the camp to the statehouse and back in less than five hours. A man would ride, say ten miles, and then rest until the answer came, when he would ride back to his starting point at full speed. Lieutenant Satterlee stated that the would not be available over accidental ground, where a horse could go across country, over fences and ditches, ravines, uphill and down, across fields and streams, where bieveles would not be in it. Still there are times when the bicycle might be useful in war, and the Georgia army, when it gets encamped, will experiment. Toledo command has a detachment of bicyclers and there are wheelmen attached to other commands, but they are few. The Georgia boys are anxious to experiment and they are to have an opportunity. Tac tics have been prepared for drilling wheelmen. They can carry guns and ammu-nition and can be thrown forward quickly, but they cannot fight without dismounting, that is they cannot fight to do any good. Arrangemetns will be made to have the wheelmen at the camp for one or two days

DEFACING THE CAPITOL

Two Maconites May Find That Writing Is

Costly. Two Maconites, who were recent visitors at the statehouse, left their autographs in Hanging against the wall of the corridor, near the Washington street entrance, is a large tablet containing the names of the capitol commission and the dates of the beginning and completion of the work. It is a handsome building and is a monument to the gentlemen who directed the erection. It is something to be proud of to have one's name on that tablet. Realizing that, C. C. Porter, of Macon, inscribed his name just below the tablet a few days ago. Perhaps on the same day, H. Herrington, of con, wrote his name on a column of the Washington street entrance. It may be that were amusing themselves du og the wait for a look at the casket of Mr.

Davis on Monday. The legislature at the last session passed a bill fixing a penalty of $100 fine for defacing the capitol. Writing an autograph is specified as a defacement. These two par-ties may have to pay that sum for leaving their names in such a conspicuous place. An example is to be made of somebody in order to protect the building.

got his watch back. After serving seven years Dawson was pardoned yesterday by Governor Northen. It was presented to the governor in behalf of the prisoner that he has made a good record in the penitentiary, and his release was recommended by the solicitor general and several others.

J. M. Sweat and R. J. Sweat, two brothers, also of Ware county, both white, were convicted last year of robbery by intimidation. They were sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. Their pardon was recommended by the solicitor general, the judge, the prosecutor and others. Their term was five years.

Joe Sampson, of Cobb county, who was serving a twenty-year term for burglary, was pardoned on a showing that he has consumption and is not, likely to live very long.

THE OUTCOME ON MONDAY MORNING

Of the Plea of Former Jeopardy Is Awaited With Interest-The Jury Was Drawn Yesterday.

The action of Judge Richard Clark in discharging Juror Crawley and declaring a mistrial in the Stocks case was the topic of conversation all over the city yesterday. And especially among the lawyers did this discussion wax the warmest.

By some the action of Judge Clark was criticised very severely, but others upheld him and pleaded that it was nothing but common humanity that the juror should have been allowed to go.

The point at issue seems to be as to whether or not Porter Stocks has been in jeopardy. At first the attorneys for the defense laid great stress upon the fact that they had not consented to have the juror told of the death of his mother, but later they decided that whether or not the consent of the defense was obtained by Judge Ciark, Stocks had been placed in jeopardy.

The counsel for the state, on the other hand, put great stress upon the fact that the counsel for the defense had consented, according to Judge Clark, who declared that it should be so recorded that the juror should be informed of the death of his mother. The evident earnestness of both sides in the matter—as widely as they differ—has set that part of the public, which has never received an education in Blackstone, to thinking very seriously; but the more thought that is expended upon the legal tangle the worse the matter becomes in the mind of the inexperienced, until they are coverable as a constant of the property diversity. are overwhelmed with the great diversity of opinions and merely decide that somebody is mistaken, and sadly so. Despite the fact that they are apparently

Despite the fact that they are apparently upheld by the stenographer's report, the attorneys for Stocks say that they are willing to acknowledge that the defense agreed that the juror should be informed of the death of his mother. This fact, they claim, is irrelevant to the point at issue.

"The juror," said Mr. Reuben Arnold again yesterday," was discharged for no valid or proper cause. The law does not provide that a juror shall be discharged except under certain existing circumstances.

except under certain existing circumstances These circumstances did not exist singly or in entirety in Juror Crawley's case. We think that the proper thing would have been for the judge to have sent a bailfft along with Crawley."

A number of attorneys expressed opinions about the Stocks case as it now stands, but all of them persistently refuse to be quoted. Drawing the durors.

It is hardly probable that the murder branch of the Stocks case will be taken up Monday, but Judge Marshall Clarke and Monday, but Judge Marshall Charke and Clerk Myers went conscientiously to work yesterday morning to draw the names for a jury. The number of names drawn was 182, but it is hardly probable that half of the jurors could be secured out of this num-The attorneys for the defense stated that ber.

The attorneys for the defense stated that a plea of former jeopardy would be filed, but it was not drawn up yesterday. This will be done, however, on Monday morning, when Judge Clark will have to dispose of it before the murder branch can be taken up. It is very likely that Judge Clark will set down upon the plea, as he has set the murder case for trial, which is equivalent to saying that he does not believe that Stocks has been in jeopardy.

If Judge Clark does refuse to grant the plea of former jeopardy, his decision will be appealed and this branch of the case will be taken up to the supreme court. In the meantime the murder branch will lie jdle until the supreme court makes some disposition of the plea of the defense.

CHUCK WINGO ARRESTED.

He Will Be Carried Back to Tallulah Today.

Chuck Wingo, a yard conductor on the Richmond and Danville railroad, who is said to have led the riot at Tallulah on the day of the firemen's picinc, was arrested yesterday morning by Detective Crim and is now locked up awaiting the arrival of the authorities of that place.

The big fight at the firemen's plenic occurred only about ten days ago. As many as forty men participated in the row and the wonder is that it did not terminate fatally. Alex Donald was shot, but not fatally. True bills have been found against a large number of the fighters.

Mayor Lorraine, of Tallulah, was notified by telegraph of the arrest of Wingo and he replied that an officer would reach the city this morning.

Talk of Mounting Soldiers on Bicycles for The Porter Stocks Case Is Now Dora Williams on the Warpath After a Truant Lover.

SHE HAS SWALLOWED GLASS ONCE

For a Lover's Sake and She Don't Propose to Let Any More Lovers Escape Her.

A young woman wearing a coquettish little yachting cap and a close fitting dress of light yachting cap and a close fitting dress of light yellow material waltzed up before Recorder Calhoun with a smile on her face yesterday afternoon and said she was ready to tell about the scene she created with a knife and pistol and some very frightful threats.

The young woman, who was not over eighteen, seemed to enjoy the little sensation she created by her careless appearance and beamed alternately upon the spectators and beamed alternately upon the spectators and Judge Calhoun. She was nicely dressed and had a face, which but for its lack of settled expression, would have been beautiful.

The young woman was Dora Williams, the very same one who swallowed powdered glass

because her medical student lover graduated and went home to practice medicine. The story of her attempted suicide was printed in The Constitution at the time. The young wo-man had been receiving devoted attentions from a young medical student, and when he received his diploma and left the city without any understanding as to when he would come back, she was heart-broken and she resolved upon suicide. She swallowed several pieces of broken glass and her life was barley saved. Since making her supper on glass the young woman has never, it is claimed, been exactly the same. She has been a trifle queer and hard to manage. Although she has been disconsolate she has not been without a lover, as the case in which she appeared before the police judge yesterday afternoon shows. Mounted Officer Hamilton yesterday morning arrested the girl upon the complaint of Mrs. Molile Reeves, of Horton street. Mrs. Reeves and another woman teld the officer that Dora Williams went to her house at night and raised a terrible disturbance. She had a knife in one hand, a cocked pistol in the other, and said she was out for blood. She other, and said she was out for blood. She acted wildly and at first those who saw her thought she was drunk.

She announced that she was in search of her truant lover and she believed he was with another woman in that house. She swore most emphatically that if she found her lover with another woman she would murder both of them on the spot. She succeeded the transfer of the state of the stat ceeded in attracting a big crowd by her loud cries and threats and every one feared that she would shoot some one. She was finally induced to leave before any damage was done.

Dora Williams plead guilty to the charges as sworn to by the two witnesses, and said she was only prevented from carrying out her threat by her failure to find her lover. Patrolman Lynan was a witness in the case, and he said he knew that the young woman was very deeply smitten with a young man; so deeply so in fact that she had visited his home. He had seen the two meet on his beat many times. Judge Calhoun fined the young woman $10 and costs.

Proposals for the graduation, trestle work and masonry upon the extension of the Manchester and Augusta railroad in South Carolina, from Remini, in Clarendon county, to Denmark, in Barawell county, a distance of 44 miles, are invited. Amount of material to be moved about 1,500,000 yards; amount of trestle to be built about 5 1-2 miles.

The work will be divided into sections of about 5 miles each. Bids may be made for the sections separately, or for the whole work. Bids for sections will include the trestles upon them with the exception of those at Santee river, North Edisto, South Edisto and Half-Way swamp. The Santee river trestle will be about 14,000 lineal feet; South Edisto about 5,000 lineal feet and Half-Way swamp about 1,000 lineal feet. For the above mentioned trestles separate bids are invited, and for the Santee trestle two bids, one for full pile trestle, the other for frame trestle upon pile foundation. At Santee trestle three forces will be required to be put in operation and maintained until the work is completed.

Bids will be opened on the 17th day of June, 1893, and contracts awarded upon accepted proposals at the office of the Wilmington N. C.

Work to be pushed with all possible dispatch, and to be completed on the first day of January, 1894. Plans, peofiles and specifications can be seen at the above mentioned office.

The company reserves the right to decline any and all proposals. Bond will be required to the amount of 15 per cent estimated value of work centracted for.

I have thoroughly tested STUART'S GIN AND BUCHU, and am convinced that it has great intrinsic worth, and fills a long felt want in medicine. It possesses a delicacy of flavor which renders it agreeable to the most feeble and fastidious taste. It is a good stomachic and a general and efficient tonic. In kidney and bladder troubles it has no equal. Both in acute and chrodic affections of these organs, its use, in my hands, has given great satisfaction, imparting tone and vigor where loss of vitality or other irregularities exist.

Raised by the Ladies of Richmond, Vir-

AT THEIR RECENT MEMORIAL BAZAAR

The Proceeds to Be Divided Between the Davis Museum and a Monument to the Soldiers and Sailors.

Nearly every one will be interested in the work of the recent memorial bazaar, which was held in the city of Richmond,

This enterprise was conceived by the patriotic ladies of Richmond, who thought it an excellent idea to hold the bazaar as a means of raising money and to call upon the other states and cities of the south, since they formed a part of the confederacy, to contribute their share to this end.

It should have been stated in the opening paragraph that the object of the bazaar was to raise money for the Davis museum, and for a monument to be erected to the sol-diers and sailors of the confederacy.

This, however, is very generally known, as the call for assistance was sounded throughout the entire south, and Georgia, in her liberal and patriotic way, responded cheerfully to that appeal.

cheerfully to that appeal.

The way in which she responded, as did the other states, was to send to Richmond valuable relics of the old south, pieces of crockery, silver and other articles of value, which commanded a ready sale by reason of their historic associations. Help in other ways was also made to the enterprise and fhe ladies met with every encouragement in their patriotic work.

The bazaar was liberally patronized by the people of Richmond who turned ou every day and spent freely of their income and earnings at the several tents, which made up the bazaar. The rivalry between the ladies in charge of these tents amounted to very intense, though, of course, friendly and good natured, opposition.

When the bazaar was over, and the financiers of the enterprise sat down to figure out the profits, it was found that the ladies had cleared as much as $28,418.65.

This was a very great surprise even to them, and served to emphasize the zeal dies had cleared as much as $28,418.95.

This was a very great surprise even to them, and served to emphasize the zeal and determination with which they had entered upon the discharge of their duties.

They made up their minds to carry it through and they succeeded.

It was a grand work, and the praise of the noble women is not only not confined to the commonwealth in which the grim old here sleens, but is allied with the friends hero sleeps, but is allied with the friends of the enterprise and of Mr. Davis all over the south.

the south.

The money will be equally divided between the Davis museum fund and the monument to the soldiers and sailors of the confederacy. This will insure a neat sum to each of these enterprises and the work of the ladies will be gratefully remembered.

It will be gratefully remembered. It will be gratefully remembered are raising of this sum of money Georgia came second.

second. Georgia's place is usually first in all laudable and patriotic enterprises, but since the friendly contest was waged on Virginia soil, it was only natural that the victory should go to the Old Dominion. Of the sum of money which was raised from the bazaar, Georgia contributed about $2,400. The order in which the amounts were contributed, or rather as they were realized from the several tents, is as follows:

while the reeming of state plate is atoused by Georgia's work at the bazaar, it should not inflame Atlanta's vanity to be reminded of her component interest in Georgia's contribution. Other cities contributed many beautiful wares and relies of value, but Atlanta was not in that number.

Macon contributed the largest sum followed by Savannah, while Atlanta is very near, if not quite, at the foot. This must not, however, be construed to any lack of interest on the part of Atlanta in this noble enterprise. Atlanta will yet contribute no doubt her full share toward the movement, which seeks to perpetuate the memories of the old south, in what is still known as the south's old capital.
